NEW YORK appointed fourteen to [illegible] vice, and the fourteen [illegible] confess "simply terrible."

Vice clubs are worse than old "blues law" hotels: "dance studios" [illegible] vice, and hostesses of [illegible] doubtless with honorable excep[illegible] represent an ancient profession as well left undescribed.

The thousands of speakeasies in New York are worse than the thousands of saloons used to be, because the doors are not open.

In short you get the impression that passing a law doesn't change human nature.

IN northern cities, where large colonies of colored men and women are permanently established, financiers will put heart on apartment built for Negroes. Colored people have been compelled to live in dilapidated tenements, paying high rents, more than whites had paid. The system has been [illegible], unjust, harmful to whites as well as blacks.

JOHN D ROCKEFELLER, in New York City, and Julius Rosenwald, of Chicago, set a good example, supplying apartments, well built, at reasonable rents, for colored families.

Mr Rosenwald will invest $2,500,000 in an apartment to house 400 negro families. Tenants will pay lower rents than heretofore, and the investment will pay six per cent interest.

In New York, in a district already occupied by colored people, Mr Rockefeller has built an even larger building, the Paul Laurence Dunbar apartments, for negroes.

White men brought the colored people here as slaves against their will, and it is the business of civilized white men to see that they are treated decently and have fair opportunities.

BOOTLEGGING under prohibition is at least dramatic.

One bootleg gangster, Frankie Uale, was murdered by other gangsters.

Prospero Petroino, brilliant young prosecutor, tried to identify Uale's killers, supposed to have been sent to New York from Chicago.

As Petroino sat at dinner on Sunday night bullets came through his dining room window from an automobile flying past.

The stake involved in these killings and counter-killings amounts to $1,000,000 a year at least. Prohibition authorities, bewildered, admit that recently vast quantities of rum had been diverted from government warehouses, 100,000 gallons in one case."

The Republicans deny that prohibition is an important national issue. Criminals don't agree with them.

MRS. CLEM SHAVER, wife of the Democratic national chairman, denounces the Democratic ticket and platform, saying no good American woman will vote for it.

Will Rogers says, "Clem's wife threw a cat into the electric fan."

There will be many cats thrown into Republican and Democratic electric fans before the campaign ends. It is going to be a woman's fight on both sides and the female of the species will show professional politicians some things they never knew. Women say what they think, very little inhibition.

His parish has an area of more than 100,000 square miles, so the Rev. G. M. Scott, Queensland, Australia, missionary, uses two English-built monoplanes in hopping from sermon to sermon. The flying reverend is a veteran of the R. F. C., and was decorated in France.

MERCURY GOES UP IN SPITE OF HEAVY SHOWER

Relief May Come Tonight or Wednesday from Terrific Thunderstorms

A shower during which .12 of an inch of rain fell, at noon yesterday, brought only temporary relief from the heat to Marion residents suffering from a torrid wave since Friday.

Unless the "terrific thundershowers" predicted for Wednesday and "possibly" tonight, unexpectedly arrive before sundown, today threatens to be much hotter than yesterday.

With the mercury standing at 80 at noon today and steadily mounting, the temperature was expected to exceed yesterday's high of 83 before nightfall. Yesterday the temperature rose to 83 about noon and remained at that temperature during the greater part of the day. Last night's low was 59.

Same One Year Ago

One year ago yesterday the mercury climbed to 93 and dropped to 59 at night.

Two additional deaths from heat and two from drowning were added to northern Ohio's toll during the recent heat wave. A heavy rainstorm which flooded a section of the west side of Cleveland late yesterday brought the temperature from a high of 86 degrees at 1 o'clock to 71 at 3 p. m. The latest heat victim was Joseph Ziss, 42, who died at a Cleveland hospital after suffering a stroke while unloading sand.

At Dover, O., the five-year-old daughter of Elmer Huprich, died from effects of the heat.

A man found dead from the heat at Massillon yesterday was identified as Frank Dalton, 45, of St. Paul's Station.

Go Up Since Shower

Temperatures throughout the state have mounted since Monday afternoon when showers gave temporary relief.

HOPPE SANITY TRIAL MAY END THURSDAY

Toledo Child Slayer Sullen as State Seeks To Send Him to Electric Chair

Toledo, O., July 10—The fate of Charles (Stanley) Hoppe, confessed slayer of 7-year-old Dorothy Sielazowski and Lily Dale Croy, young school teacher, may be in the hands of the three common pleas judges who are conducting a hearing into Hoppe's sanity by Thursday, it was believed as the sullen prisoner was brought into court this morning where the state will attempt to tear down the whole structure of his insanity defense and exact a sentence of death in the electric chair.

Yesterday's session of the hearing, at which defense counsel tentatively closed their case, brought out a maize of contradictory testimony by defense alienists.

Dr. L. A. Querner, who is credited with having obtained Hoppe's confession to the Croy murder, contended that, in his opinion, Hoppe was incapable of knowing right from wrong and not responsible for his acts and therefore insane.

DOUBTS DEATH REPORT

Rome, July 10—Signora Crocioni, wife of Natale Crocioni, motor chief of the Italia, said today she did not believe reports her husband was dead on an ice floe in the Arctic. She said she had a radiogram from him on Saturday saying he was in good health and that he was planning to leave Spitzbergen.

SCOUR NEWARK IN SEARCH FOR LYNN ADKINS

Escaped Prisoner Forces Friend To Drive Him to Licking County City

NO TRACE FOUND

Officials of Portsmouth, Zanesville and Wheeling on Lookout for Man

Search for Lynn Adkins, 38, auto mobile salesman of Indianapolis, who escaped yesterday from Deputy Sheriff Ralph Paul and two women assistant juvenile probation officers of Columbus, after holding them at bay with a revolver, near Stratford, was being centered in the vicinity of Newark today.

Last word of the whereabouts of the escaped prisoner, who was arrested in Marion yesterday morning, was given by Clinton D. Matthews, of Delaware, a friend of Adkins. Matthews reported to Deputy Sheriff Paul that Adkins had forced him, at the point of a gun, to drive him to Newark, where he left the Matthew automobile, late yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Paul and other Franklin county officials searched for Adkins at Newark, following the report made by Matthews, but found no trace of the escaped man. They have notified officials at Portsmouth, Zanesville and Wheeling.

Jumps Bond

Adkins is wanted in Franklin county juvenile court on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 15-year-old girl. He was arrested originally April 18, police say, and gave a cash bond of $500 for his appearance May 4, but failed to appear.

He was caught at the interurban station here in a "trap" laid by the Franklin county officers. According to the officers, he had arranged to meet the girl implicated in the delinquency case in this city. In laying the "trap" the girl was accompanied here by a woman assistant juvenile probation officer.

After stopping in Delaware for lunch on the way back to Columbus in an automobile, Adkins ordered the driver of the car to stop as the car neared Stratford, flashing a gun he found in a handbag on the floor of the machine. His handcuffs, taken off while he at his lunch at Delaware, had not been replaced.

Removing a gun from Deputy Sheriff Paul, Adkins stepped from the car and boarded another automobile traveling in the direction of Delaware. He was reported to have alighted from the car as it neared the outskirts of Delaware and was last seen walking up a side road. He met Matthews and forced him to make the drive to Newark, late yesterday, according to police reports.

COUNCIL TO PASS ON BUDGET FRIDAY

Needs of Various City Departments To Be Prepared by Finance Committee

An adjourned meeting of city council to pass on the budget for next year, will be held Friday night, it was announced at the meeting of that body last night. The budget containing the needs of the various city departments for 1929 will be prepared by the finance committee of the council, Wednesday and Thursday and will be ready for presentation to council Friday night.

After being passed by the council, it will be submitted to the budget commission consisting of County Auditor Earl Thomas, County Treasurer James Messenger and Prosecuting Attorney Frank Wiedemann, who will determine the amount of the money the city will receive for the next year's expenses. With the receipt of the amount of money available, the finance committee will make up the appropriations for the various departments, early in January.

JARDINE ORDERED TO TAKE VACATION

Cabinet Member To Cease Work at Least Two Months on Advice of Physicians

Washington, July 10—Secretary of Agriculture Jardine has been ordered by his physicians to give up all activity for at least two months.

He is planning to leave about Aug. 1 on an extended visit to Alaska. Although his friends say his condition is not serious, they frankly admit he is worn down from his close application to work during the late session of congress.

It is expected he will not be able to participate in the campaign this fall unless he recovers his strength sufficiently to make one or two radio speeches immediately before election.

No Word Comes From Nobile Refugees; Regarded as Ominous Sign

LONDON, July 10 — Wireless messages from the Nobile survivors on the ice floe off North East land have ceased, said a Central News Dispatch from Virgo Bay this afternoon. This is regarded as an ominous sign. The dispatch added that an airplane is ready to make a reconnoitering trip over the ice as soon as the weather clears.

ROBINSON SEES NEED OF FIGHT TO HOLD SOUTH

Would Wage Campaign To Combat Opposition in Democratic Stronghold

New York, July 10—A thinly-veiled but nevertheless significant warning to the new managers of the Democratic party not to take the south for granted in the campaign at hand was sounded here today by Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

It is a warning which he will take before the full Democratic national committee tomorrow, when for the first time in recent history the party candidates for the presidency and the vice presidency will sit down around a common table with the party managers of all states and "talk plain talk" about the strategy and tactics of his campaign.

Would Enter South

Senator Robinson wants the Democrats to establish headquarters in the south and conduct a campaign, just as they always have conducted campaigns in the north and east and west. If Gov. Alfred E. Smith and the national committee adopt his views it will be the first time in history that one party has considered it necessary to conduct a southern campaign.

"Too much stress," said Senator Robinson today, "can not be laid upon the value of an organization that shall extend its activities to every part of the country.

"I would like to have the national

CUT APPROPRIATIONS TO FILL OUT FUNDS

City Council Raises $36,000 to Pay Interest and Retire Bonds

Slashing appropriations of practically every city department and transferring money from other funds, city council last night succeeded in raising approximately $36,000 needed in paying interest and retiring bonds this year.

The shortage in the sinking fund was due to an error made at the time of making annual appropriations early in the year. Through some misunderstanding, money set aside for this purpose was discovered to be $36,000 short. Out of the money raised by council last night, $1,200 will be used to pay the salary of the city health commissioner for the last half of the year, the remainder to go into the sinking fund for the payment of bonds and interest. In preparing the appropriation ordinance in January, the salary of the health commissioner was provided for six months.

Money removed from the various appropriations totaled $13,900, this with $11,200 taken from the hospital fund, $11,100 from the inheritance tax fund and $1,112.96 from the bond and coupon fund, provided enough to make up the shortage.

TAX RULING IS GIVEN BY ATTORNEY GENERAL

Columbus, July 10—Attorney General Edward C. Turner, in a ruling given the state tax commission today, was on record as holding that before property of institutions can legally be exempted from taxation on the ground that the property belongs to an institution used exclusively for charitable purposes, the property must not only be used exclusively for charitable purposes but the legal title to the property must be in the institution or held in trust for the sole use and benefit of said institution.

COUNCIL JOINS IN MOVE FOR CITY AIRPORT

R. E. Prettyman Announces Committee Is Working on Project

FUNDS LACKING

Lease of Site Favored; Report To Be Submitted at Next Meeting

Willingness to cooperate, but no money with which to do so at this time, is the position of city council with reference to the proposed municipal airport for Marion, it developed at the meeting of council last night, following report of Councilman R. E. Prettyman, chairman of the committee appointed by President Murphy to meet with members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce relative to the matter.

Councilman Prettyman first said the committee wished to go on record as absolutely favoring establishment of a landing field. At the same time, he said, the committee appreciated the fact that council would have no money the remainder of this year to invest in a field.

Sites Are Viewed

He stated that a number of possible sites near the city had been viewed and that the land was offered for sale at from $200 to $1,200 an acre. However, other tracts, located within three miles of Marion, are available at less than $800 an acre, Prettyman stated.

That the committee had "something up its sleeve" which might result in a more satisfactory price, if the money could be secured, was intimated by Prettyman. George Whysall, general manager of the Marion Water Co., who was present at the meeting, ventured the opinion that the money could very easily be secured by popular subscription if council was unable to raise the amount necessary. He offered his services in a campaign to raise the money.

Lease Favored

That it would be the better plan to lease the land for a period of two years with the privilege of buying, was the opinion of council and also of Mr. Whysall, who said it might be found at the end of two years that the field does not measure up to the city's needs.

No definite action was taken by council pending a report Mr. Prettyman said the committee would make at the next meeting of council. Probable details of the report were not disclosed.

OUTLINE PROPOSED DRY LAW CHANGES

Association To Formulate Volstead Act Amendment at Cincinnati Meeting

Cincinnati, July 10—Formulation of a program to be presented to the next session of congress to induce the legislators to align themselves in favor of an amendment to the Volstead act was under way here today by the executive board of the International Union of United Brewery, cereal, mill, flour and soft drink workers of America.

The executive board of the union went into session yesterday at the association's headquarters. It will hold meetings each day this week, except Wednesday, to discuss various matters pertaining to future work of the organization in addition to completing plans for the modification program.

A number of labor leaders from other parts of the nation are in attendance.

OPPOSE RATES

Cleveland City Manager Disapproves Proposed Gas Schedule

Cleveland, July 10— City Manager W. R. Hopkins has disapproved a pending ordinance here granting the East Ohio Gas Co. a six-year franchise. Hopkins, in making known his decision to city council last night, demanded a reduction in the present natural gas rates instead of a contemplated increase, which, after the first two years, would call for an average raise in rates of five cents per thousand feet.

For the third time in history a man allowed himself to be swept over the dangerous Horseshoe Falls in the Niagara River—and lived to tell the story. He is Jean Lussier, 36, French Canadian, who performed the hazardous feat encased in a huge ball of fabricated rubber 11 feet in diameter. The strips of courtplaster on his countenance cover the only bruises he received in the fall.

Fire Chief M'Farland Says New Main Must Be Laid To Boost Supply of Water

Controversy Over Silver st. Line Still Blocked by Threatened Injunction Suits by Property Owners; Council To Consider Final Action at Adjourned Meet

A new angle in the controversy threatening over the building of a 20-inch water main on Silver st., from Kenton av. to Main st., developed at the meeting of city council last night, when Fire Chief McFarland said the building of the main was an absolute necessity if additional water is to be supplied to the northern and eastern parts of the city.

The water company is now supplying every drop of water they are able to supply through their present pipe lines, the chief said, and if the city is to continue growing, there must be more of a water supply. Silver st. presents the most logical avenue for getting that water to where it is needed, he pointed out.

The chief's version of the question followed a statement by George Whysall, general manager of the company, to the effect that he had heard of threatened injunction suits by property owners if the company attempted to dig up the street, and if this was the case, the company would wait until such a time when the street needed resurfacing, before they would start work. This, he said he believed would be within the next three or four years.

Brings Up Old Question

City Solicitor Geran again brought up the question presented at the last meeting of council of why the line could not be laid under the sidewalk on the south side of the street. There are two reasons, it was explained by Mr. Whysall, why the company would hesitate to do this. Because of the danger to property in case the line should ever blow up and also because they already have an eight-inch line through the center of the street which could be reclaimed and the trench in which this line is now laid could be used for the new line, reducing in a large measure the amount of blasting necessary to place the line at the depth of six feet which is provided for in the plans, he said.

Chief McFarland refused to be drawn into the controversy as to where the line should be built, but was positive in his assertion that it should be built. The city, he said, had been working 20 years to get this line, and nothing should stop its construction.

Property Owners Against It

President Murphy said he had been approached by a number of the property owners on the street who were indignant over the proposed digging up of the street and gave as his opinion, that the company would never be able to lay the line in the street, and asked Mr. Whysall what the attitude of his company would be if council refused to grant them permission to build the line. It was then that the manager of the water company said the com-

ADD TO MYSTERY N LOEWENSTEIN CASE

Plans for Funeral Proceed Although Rumors Cast Doubt on Death

London, July 10—Although the family of Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian financier, still maintained today that he had suffered an accidental death, two startling reports further deepened the mystery surrounding his fate.

Both reports tended to strengthen the convictions of those who insist that Loewenstein is still alive and that the story of his accidental fall from his plane while crossing the English channel was a hoax. Neither, however, has substantial confirmation.

The first of these stated that Loewenstein had withdrawn a sum equivalent to half a million dollars from his bank here before leaving Croydon in his plane.

The second originated in Dunkirk, France, where a fisherman stated he saw a parachute drop from the sky near the village of Bray-Dunes, on the French coast, at about the same time Loewenstein's plane was supposed to have been overhead.

Despite these reports however, funeral services for the Belgian banker will be held in Brussels Wednesday.

HEARINGS TODAY

SLAIN MAN'S WIDOW TAKES WITNESS STAND

Identifies Koon as Assailant of Husband at Their Home, May 29

TWELVE MEN ON JURY

State's Attorneys To Ask Death Penalty for Accused Man

Mrs. Henry Foos, widow of the murder victim, was the first witness to take the stand in the common pleas court this afternoon in the trial of Everett Koon, who is charged with having attacked Mr. Foos and inflicted wounds which caused his death a short time later.

In a voice broken with emotion, Mrs. Foos identified Koon as the man who attacked her husband in their home, on May 29. She began her testimony when court convened at 1 o'clock, this afternoon.

During the examination of Mrs. Foos by Prosecutor Frank Wiedemann, a number of exhibits were presented. Among them were a black market bag, a table cloth, Mrs. Foos' scarf and the stone with which it is charged Koon struck Foos.

Mrs. Foos identified the stone as the one with which her husband was struck.

When asked if she knew what caused certain spots on the stone, she answered "that is my husband's blood."

The first declaration that state's attorneys, Frank Wiedemann and Carter Patton, would ask for the death penalty for Koon, was made this morning in Attorney Patton's address to the jury.

The second day of the murder trial opened in common pleas court here this morning with a continuation of the selection of jurors.

Following the selection of the jury and the opening addresses by Attorney Patton and Defense Attorney Homer E. Johnson, a motion was made by Prosecuting Attorney Wiedemann that [illegible] crime. The jury left the court room shortly after 10 o'clock. On the return about an hour later Judge George B. Scofield recessed court until 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Not To Prove Alibi

That Defense Attorney Johnson will not attempt to prove an alibi for Koon or introduce a plea of insanity, was indicated by his statements to the jury. Attorney Johnson will attempt to prove, he said, that Koon was trapped in the Foos residence by Mr. and Mrs. Foos and that Mr. Foos was the aggressor in the fight that followed.

It was during the fight with the intruder that Mr. Foos suffered injuries which caused his death about 24 hours later.

Mr. Johnson's remarks to the jury were brief. In his statement he denied that Koon premeditated the murder of Mr. Foos and that he had planned to rob him.

The indictment against Koon charges him with "murder and murder while attempting to commit and committing a robbery." Both counts are charges of first degree murder.

Reads Indictment

While attorney Johnson has not indicated such, it is likely that he will attempt to prove that Koon did not enter the house with the intent of robbing Mr. Foos. He will likely attempt to prove that Koon's entry into the house was "house breaking" and not robbery.

Attorney Patton talked approximately 10 minutes in his address to the jury. He read the indictment returned by the special grand jury on June 6 and recounted in detail the circumstances surrounding the killing.

Koon, he said, was seen lying under a tree near the Foos residence on the morning of the murder. Later in the morning Mr. and Mrs. Foos drove in their buggy to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hill, their son-in-law and daughter, and with them went to a cemetery to decorate graves of relatives, Patton stated.

Call Neighbor

On returning to their home about 11 o'clock, Mrs. Foos entered the house and found that a prowler had ransacked the downstairs. Calling to Mr. Foos, who was in the barnyard milking the cow, she told him that someone had been in the house.

Shipment of Safety Club Buttons is Expected Soon

(By Just Kids Safety Club Editor)

The Star is expecting a shipment of "Just Kids Safety Club" buttons any day now, so keep watching for announcements. Be sure and not miss this chance to gain an entrance to the three-cent day party at Crystal Lake Park, Monday, July 16.

Right now is the time to begin saving your pennies if you haven't begun already. Surely there's something you can do around the house or for your neighbor that will get you three cents at least once a day. And if you're especially keen at working you should rather in at least 10 cents a day.

Marion members of the "Just Kids Safety Club" have been about the luckiest kids of any who have joined clubs in other towns. At least, there has been nothing said about club activities in other cities. You've certainly been having a summer of good times, and who knows, this may not be the last one.

You never can tell, when two such good entertainers as The Star and the management of Crystal Lake park get together, just what the result will be.

If you kids have been as warm these days as your editor has, you'll all take advantage of the swimming pool at the park the day of the party. Better be sure and take your suits and towels with you and baths for three cents. If you don't furnish your suits and towels the bathing will be only nine cents anyway.

Kids, have you all written to Addison Bain about your games? He's interested in the letters he's received already and is looking forward to getting a great many more. Don't disappoint him.

Keep a weather eye open for the announcement of the arrival of your pins, and then come in and get them before it's too late, and they're all gone.

Keep watching.

BEGG IS OPPOSED BY DRY LEAGUE

"Moderate Wet" Not Satisfactory for Governor, Official Organ Reports

Columbus, July 10—Declaring that a "moderate wet" is entirely too wet to suit Ohio voters, the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, through an editorial published in the "American Issue," official organ of the league, was on record today as opposing the race of Congressman James T. Begg for gubernatorial honors on the Republican ticket.

The editorial was said to have been occasioned by an editorial appearing in the Cincinnati "Times-Star" last week which endorsed Begg, declaring him to be a "moderate" on the liquor question and describing Myers Y. Cooper as "too dry" and Attorney General Edward C. Turner as "too wet." Both of the latter were aspirants to the post of state executive.

BIRTHS INCREASE IN CITY DURING MONTH

Twenty-Seven Girls and 23 Boys is Baby Total for June

A gain of seven in the number of births during June over that of the preceding month, with the same number of deaths each month, was shown in a report for June completed by Registrar Mary Ellen Kerr at the office of the city health department today.

Fifty babies were born in the city during June compared to 43 during May, the report shows. It also shows that whereas there were 15 more boys than girls born during May, there were four more girls than boys born during June, twenty-seven girls and 23 boys having arrived during the month.

There was one violent death during the month, that of Chester H. Holland, who took his own life at his home on Sharp-st, June 29. There were three deaths from heart disease during June and also three still born cases. There were two deaths from each of the following causes during the month: chronic myocarditis, chronic nephritis, cerebral hemorrhage, apoplexy, arterio sclerosis, uremic poisoning, premature birth and exhaustion, and one death each from acute nephritis, chronic heart trouble, complication of diseases, mortitis, secondary anemia, acute appendicitis, diabetes, influenza, inanition and insanity.

JOLLY STITCHERS CLUB HOLDS ALL-DAY MEETING

Green Camp, July 10—The Jolly Stitchers club held an all-day meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Edward Johnson southwest of here. A picnic dinner was served at the noon hour. In the afternoon a short business program was held after which the children gave a program on the lawn. The next club meeting will be held Sept. 3, at the home of Mrs. George Jacobs. The program committee for this meeting will be Miss Gertrude Jacobs and Mrs. Homer Munn; and the refreshment committee, Mrs. Charles Collins and Mrs. Carrie Fox.

Says Konjola Is Splendid Remedy For Poor Health

"It Ended Every Misery I Had," Declares This Man

MR. L. M. PARSONS

"Konjola relieved a bad case of stomach trouble for me and it ended every misery I had," writes Mr. L. M. Parsons, Johnson Hotel, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

"I had no appetite and what food I managed to eat caused all kinds of pain in the pit of my stomach. I would bloat up with gas until I could hardly get my breath and a lumplike feeling in my stomach made me uncomfortable for hours after every meal. Soon my whole system was rundown and I felt half-sick every day from morning until night.

"Konjola proved to be the only effective remedy in my case. Nothing else seemed to help me. Four bottles of this medicine cleansed my system so thoroughly that I am now free of every trace of stomach trouble and my whole system seems to have been made over. Konjola is a splendid remedy for poor health and I strongly indorse it."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stamp & Sims Pharmacy, and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

Hoover to Take Definite Stand on Tariff in Speech of Acceptance, August 11

Will Eliminate All Doubts by Firmly Advocating Fundamental G. O. P. Principles, is Announcement; Winding Up Work in Washington

Washington, July 10—All uncertainty over the attitude of Herbert Hoover toward the Republican protective tariff principle will be settled in the Republican nominee's speech of acceptance at Stanford University, Calif., on Aug. 11, it was learned today.

Hoover, aside from touching upon prohibition and other current issues, will take particular pains, in accepting the nomination, to make it clear to the rank and file of the party that he believes in the rock-ribbed, fundamental Republican tariff principle. He will declare himself for the tariff and declare it to be one of the principal issues of the coming campaign.

One of Hoover's closest political advisers revealed this today to International News Service. He pointed out how opponents of Hoover in the pre-convention campaign had attacked him on the ground that his tariff views were unknown and declared the nominee would answer these critics in the acceptance speech. This adviser also called attention to a pronouncement by Hubert Work, the new national Republican chairman regarding the tariff in his recent letter to national committeemen.

In that letter, Work said: "A tariff on imports to protect our workmen in the mills, mines and fields against the cheap labor of competing nations and to give employment to our workers, that they may buy the produce of our farms, is of course, one of the outstanding issues of the campaign. Our people should vote to protect the American payroll, vastly larger than that of all the rest of the world. It is our one universal asset. We must protect it to maintain our high standards of living."

Consulted Hoover

The Hoover leader declared Work had consulted with the Republican nominee before sending out the letter. Consequently, he added, it must be taken for granted that Hoover approved the pronouncement on the tariff. He said Hoover would make a similar assertion in his own right in accepting the nomination.

Hoover will spend this week in cleaning up matters at the department of commerce and in supervising the launching of a new national Republican campaign organization.

He will leave Washington Saturday night, stopping off for 24 hours at Brule, Wis., to visit President Coolidge. He expects to reach San Francisco for a monster public reception there on Saturday, July 21. Then he will go to Palo Alto to rest until the notification ceremony on Aug. 11.

Senator Charles Curtis, the vice presidential nominee, meanwhile will remain in Washington for several weeks before going to his home in Topeka, Kan., where he will be notified of his nomination during the week of Aug. 13 to 18.

Solution of Controversy Over Line Not Uncovered at Meeting

pany would probably wait until the street needed resurfacing.

Councilman Tom Mead, of the second ward, said he would never give his consent to have the line laid in the street. The new asphalt street, he said, had been secured at a great expense to the property owners and he did not believe it would be fair to spoil it by digging it up. A statement by Mr. Whysall that it would be relaid in as good a condition as it is at the present time, failed to convince the second ward councilman.

Asked by President Murphy when the company would have to have a final answer from council, Mr. Whysall said the company was ready to go to work at once. He was assured by the president that council would advise him of their decision at the adjourned meeting to be held Friday night.

CLASS MEETS

Program Presented By Members of Morral Church

The Three G Class of Morral Baptist Church met last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dall, south of Morral, with 47 attending. The program opened with a song, "Stepping in the Light," by the class, a scripture reading from the forty-sixth Psalm, read by Mrs. Samuel McWhorter, and a prayer by H. Powell. Two other songs, "Sunshine in My Soul," and "Thine For Service," were sung, after which a report was made by the secretary.

Misses Bernice McClain and Beatrice Dunnell entertained with a song, "He Leadeth Me." Seven members, Misses Helen Butcher, Dorothy Schertzer, Zelda Deal, Bernice McClain and Doris Schertzer, Chester Dall and Carl Perry gave a playlet, "It's Never Too Late to Learn." "Wonderful Words of Life," was sung by five boys. Contests and games were held and light refreshments served.

The next meeting of the class will be held Aug. 13.

COUNTY SHOULD DO PAVING, CITY SAYS

Fifty-Fifty Offer of Commissioners on Kenton av. Project Rejected

Unless the board of county commissioners take advantage of a recent ruling by attorney General Turner regarding the improving state highways within a corporation it is very likely that Kenton av., from the corporation line to the Erie tracks, will not be given a permanent surface if the stand taken by city council last night is maintained.

The city pays approximately $102,000 each year into the county road fund," President Murphy declared "and if the county commissioners will not spend the small amount of money necessary to build the road, it can go to pieces."

The permanent repair of the road was presented to council by Councilman Mead, second ward. And as the result of his efforts a meeting was arranged with the county commissioners. In his report of the meeting to council last night, Councilman Mead said the commissioners had expressed the willingness to help with the improvement and he thought they would go 50-50 with the city on the cost.

Following the reading the ruling of the attorney general in which he said the county commissioners could establish a county road within the corporate limits of a city if the road was a connecting link between two state highways. Thereby, the county could pay the entire cost of the improvement. It was the unanimous opinion of council that the improving should be done by the county.

Building of the road has been a project of Councilman Mead because it is a part of the Harding highway and will connect the improved portion of the road with the new paving on West Center st. His hopes are to have a smooth road entirely through the city.

Kenton, July 10—Dale Sams, 36, Toledo, former resident of Kenton, had today filed a $75,000 libel suit against the Kenton Democrat Publishing Co., in Hardin County Common Pleas Court.

Sams claims, in his petition, that he was libeled in a story mentioning him as being held during the investigation of three former wives and two children's deaths.

AMERICANS TO TRY FOR AERIAL RECORD

Two Attempts for Regaining Endurance Title Scheduled at Dayton Airports

Dayton, July 10—Two attempts to regain for America the airplane endurance record will be made from airports here within the next two months, according to information disclosed by persons connected with the U. S. air service here today.

The first flight will be made by Henry B. Dupont, of the Wilmington, Del., Dupont family, according to the report. Dupont consulted with an aeronautical engineer at Wright field on his recent visit here, and is said to be making plans to attempt the flight the first of August. Dupont said on his visit that he wished to use the new airport now under construction at a cost of $200,000, for the take off.

Eddie Stinson and George Halderman, now on the Ford reliability tour, are the other pilots. Their attempt will be made from the Wright field, according to military circles.

The endurance record is now held by German pilots with a flight of 65 hours and 26 minutes. It will be necessary to remain aloft for 67 hours to set a new record.

6 SAVED AT SEA DUE IN NEW YORK TODAY

Woman One of Those Rescued in Transatlantic Yacht Race

New York, July 10—Saved at sea when the schooner Rofa sank in the yacht race to Spain for the queen of Spain's cup, Mrs. William Roos and the five men who comprised the crew are due to reach New York today aboard the steamer Tuscarora. They were rescued about 800 miles east of New York when both of the schooner's masts were carried away.

The rescue of the crew was made known in wireless message to their relatives in New York and Massachusetts. A few hours after the six were rescued on July 6, the schooner sank while being towed by the steamer. The reason for the sinking was not made clear in the wireless messages.

On board the Rofa, smallest of the four schooners which left New York on June 30 as the first squadron in the transatlantic race were the owner and Captain Edwin Hofchkiss, of Houghton, Mich., Charles Townsend, of Ipswich, Mass., Walter Schoeler, of New York and the cook.

Mrs. Roos was the first woman to join the crew of a yacht in a transatlantic race. She was piloting the Rofa at the start. The vessel was only 50 feet over-all.

BITTER FIGHT SEEN OVER LIQUOR ISSUE

Reed Declaration Taken as Forecast of Party Split in Missouri

St. Louis, July 10—Senator James A. Reed, supporting for his successor the candidacy of James A. Collett, of Salisbury, wet, over that of Charles M. Hay, Missouri dry leader, issued a statement here today in which he stated that prohibition would be the issue in the Democratic primary here next month.

The Reed statement was looked on by political observers here as splitting the Democratic ranks in Missouri wide open over the liquor question. It also was looked upon as reopening bitterest animosities between Reed and Hay, long political and personal enemies.

DENIES CHARGES

Mt. Gilead, July 10—An answer and cross petition was filed in the divorce action of Nellie Meeker against Aubert Meeker yesterday. Spanish American War Veterans Place Pillar in Park

Upper Sandusky, July 10—Erection of a Memorial pillar in Harrison-Smith park by the Spanish War veterans has been completed as the newest added feature of the park. The pillar bears on its one side a relic of the famous battleship, Maine, a marble slab on the opposite side and the Company B emblem on the other two sides. It is erected to the memory of Company B, Second O. V. I. Spanish War Veterans, 1898-99. One of their own members, Carib Hahn, did the mason work.

ILLNESS FATAL TO CHARLES FEELEY, 58

Rites for Life Resident of Upper Sandusky To Be Held Wednesday

Upper Sandusky, July 10—Last rites for Charles J. Feeley, 58, of North Seventh st. will be held Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Peter's Catholic church. Rev. Father John R. Forrer will officiate and burial will be made in St. Peter's cemetery.

Mr. Feeley's death occurred Monday morning at 10:45 o'clock following an 11 weeks' illness of a complication of diseases. He had been ill in bed for the past two weeks.

He had been a resident of this city his entire life and for some time was employed as an upholsterer with the late Gottlieb Rappold. For the past 14 years he has been associated with Theodore Bolish, restaurant proprietor on North Sandusky av. He was a member of St. Peter's Catholic church and was affiliated with the Moose Lodge.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Katherine Feeley, with whom he resided, a brother, Frank Feeley, of Columbus and two sisters, Mrs. Ella Wagner, of Toledo, and Mrs. Katherine Manion, of Lakewood. One brother, William and his father, Timothy Feeley are deceased.

BROADWAY REPLIES TO CHARGES OF VICE

Bright Light District Incensed Over Committee Report on Night Clubs

New York, July 10—Broadway and the rest of the bright light district bristled with indignation today over the report of the "committee of fourteen" which charged that conditions of immorality in the night clubs, speakeasies, dance halls and studios are worse now than 20 years ago in the days of the "Raines law hotels" and back room saloons.

"It isn't so," was the vehement reply of the lane of lights and laughter.

Miss Texas Guinan, so-called "queen of the night clubs," was so roiled up she threatened to launch a libel action. She said she did not know a thing about dance halls or speakeasies but she could speak for the better class of night clubs and she insisted there wasn't a thing wrong with them.

Certainly, she declared, the girls who worked in them as hostesses were not "counterparts of the Geisha girls of Japan," as was stated in the committee's report.

"Why, you should see the nice kinds in my club," she said. "They are as safe there as anywhere. Their mothers call for them every night.

"This report called hostesses prostitutes. This is an outrage. In the country I come from they would have to eat those words."

Texas challenged the authors of the report to a debate, asserting that she'd pay them "plenty" for their time.

Police Commissioner Warren read the committee's report and denied that iniquity was as widespread as pictured.

TAKE WESTERN TRIP

Galion, July 10—Miss Eleanor Polster, North Market st., and Miss Helen Donnenwirth, West Church st., are enjoying a several months' western tour, leaving Galion Saturday night. MYERS Y. COOPER IS SPEAKER AT IBERIA

Gives Two Addresses at Annual Home-Coming Service at M. E. Church

Iberia, July 10—Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, was the principal speaker at the annual home-coming of the Iberia M. E. Church, Sunday. He delivered two addresses to a large crowd of former residents of the community.

The subject for the forenoon session was "Youth," in which he stated the youth of today are better educated than a generation ago, and that he has no fears for the safety of the country, due to the so-called irresponsibility of the modern youth. He further stated that business in general is turning to young men and women of character for positions of trust and responsibility.

His subject for the afternoon session was "Citizenship." In this address he pointed out that we possess advantages not enjoyed in any other country.

The program opened with Sunday School at 10 o'clock in charge of Elmer Leathem, superintendent. The services was attended by about 110 students and visitors. A number by the orchestra and a hymn "Faith of Our Fathers," were followed by prayer by the Rev. W. H. Gibson. The scripture reading was followed by a selection by the men's quartet, "Just Outside the Door," responsive reading from Psalms; anthem, by choir; music by orchestra; address by Myers Y. Cooper; hymn, "Blessed Jesus," benediction by Rev. E. H. Curtis and music by orchestra.

At the noon hour tables were spread for a picnic dinner.

At 2 o'clock the congregation assembled in the church and after a selection by the orchestra, Mr. Cooper gave another address, which was followed by a prayer by the Rev. C. A. Riggs, selection by choir, "Can He Count On You," and a talk by former pastor, the Rev. E. B. Shumaker, of Galion; a selection by the Plymouth quartet, "What a Wonderful Savior," was followed by short talks by the Rev. C. A. Riggs, Edison, the Rev. E. H. Curtis, Cardington, Ohio, both former pastors, and George Leaming of Galion; vocal number by the men's quartet, "Church in the Wildwood," selection by choir, "Get Right with God," benediction by the Rev. C. A. Riggs. The music was furnished by the Mt. Tabor Sunday School orchestra. Services were dismissed at the Federated Church in order to allow their congregation to attend the service.

Mansfield, July 10—One hundred and one prisoners at the state reformatory here were awaiting parole today following the meeting yesterday of the state board of clemency.

Those paroled include: Crawford county, Bert Crawford and William McCullough; Hardin county, Charles Thompson; Wyandot county, Arthur Fleck.

Their paroles become effective July 14.

ANNOUNCE BAN ON POLITICAL POSTERS

Candidates Can't Use Ohio Highways for Advertising, Director Rules

Columbus, July 10—Smiling countenances of would-be office holders will not be permitted to mar the pleasure of motorists on state highway, Harry J. Kirk, director of highways, today declared in ordering all political advertising removed from within the limits of state roads.

"There is a law against the posting of advertisements on state roads and it will be strictly enforced in connection with posters promoting the candidacy of any person, regardless of their political affiliations," Kirk said.

Kirk pointed out that if the bars should be let down for political purposes it would not be long until advertisements would blot out the warning signs erected by the state at considerable expense. From letters received by Highway Director Kirk, the motoring public is against permitting any political posters, and Kirk feels such advertising would be more of a detriment than a help.

LEE STREET FIGHTING TO RECOVER POSITION

Epworth Juniors Defeat Forest Lawn To Keep Jump Ahead of Two Second Place Aggregations; Games Slated for Wednesday

BY KARL R. M'ELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

In spite of the adverse rulings of the city recreation ball commission, Lee Street and Lutheran nines were back in action again last night in Sunday School League No. 2 fighting their way toward the top of the loop standings.

It was first rumored that one of the two teams would probably withdraw from the league. But it is apparent that all harmony has been restored.

Both teams, however, had comparatively easy games last night. Lee Street blanked the Presbyterian aggregation 6 to 0. Three runs scored in the first inning put the contest on the water wagon. The winners obtained eight hits while the losers were held to four safe bingles.

Lutherans Win

Going on a hitting spree, the Lutherans trounced the Reformed crew, 12 to 2. The losers had considerable difficulty in getting to Bartsch's offerings, being held to four hits. Fourteen bingles were chalked up by the winners.

Forest Lawn developed into the latest victims of the league-leading Epworth Junior team. The leaders won 10 to 1.

But one close contest was played last night. That was when the United Brethren upset Christians No. 2, 4 to 2. The Christians have been losing games at a fast pace and have chalked up but three victories in five starts. United Brethren is tied with Lee Street for second place.

Pennant Not Clinched

From present indications, the pennant in this loop is far from being cinched. Much of the distance between Epworth Juniors and the two second place teams will be cut down Wednesday night when three postponed games will be played off.

Tonight Calvary will endeavor to keep going at the top of Sunday School league No. 1, playing Trinity at Fairfield. Christians and Epworth Seniors will clash at Silk Mills while Epworth and Wesley play at Central. St. Mary's will have an easy contest in the Presbyterian tilt at Lincoln.

Last night's scores follow:

Lutheran ..... 333 021 1—12
Reformed ..... 002 000 0— 2

Bartsch and Thinbaut; Williams and Howison.

Lee Street ..... 302 001 0— 6
Presbyterians ..... 000 000 0— 0

Burke and Cowle; Walker and Williams.

United Brethren ..... 130 000 0— 4
Christians ..... 110 000 0— 2

Zuspan and Noble; Amick and Johnson.

Forest Lawn ..... 000 001 0— 1
Epworth Juniors ..... 212 050 x—10

CARDINALS, GIANTS TO START CRUCIAL SERIES AT ST. LOUIS

New Yorkers To Launch Assault Against League-Leaders

New York, July 10—The most crucial series of the season to date starts in St. Louis today when the Giants will launch an assault against the league-leading Cardinals. The Cards start the series with an advantage of 4½ games, as a result of their 8 to 5 win over Boston yesterday while the Giants lost their third game in four starts against the Pirates.

Outbatted, the Cards scored five runs on homers by Bottomley and Harper, the former's being his nineteenth of the current campaign. An injury kept Frank Frisch out of the line-up. The Giants lost 5 to 3.

The Reds, who have copped seven of their last eight starts, take on the fast-stepping Brooklyns today. For the third straight game, Cincinnati beat the Phils by one run yesterday, 5 to 4. The Dodgers made it three out of five from Chicago when Dazzy Vance stymied the Bruins 6 to 2.

Teams Split Series

After Herb Pennock had blanked St. Louis, 4 to 0, outpitching Beck and Wiltse, the Brownies slammed four New York second string hurlers for 20 hits and plastered the Yanks 12 to 6. The two teams split their six-game series.

Collecting 23 hits, the Athletics kayoed George Grant, Cleveland hurler who had won seven straight games, and swamped the Indians by a 14 to 4 count.

The White Sox made it seven victories in 10 starts by trimming Washington, 3 to 1, in a duel between Thomas and Jones. The Sox took fifth place away from the Nats and are only one game away from first division berth.

Detroit's hopes of getting out of the cellar received a terrific jolt when the Tigers were two-timed by the Red Sox, 4 to 0 and 8 to 2.

RACE HEAD PLEADS GUILTY TO CHARGE

"North Randall Won't Surrender Yet," Says Grand Circuit President

Cleveland, July 10—"North Randall won't surrender yet," said President H. K. Devereux, of the Grand Circuit, today following his plea of guilty late Monday to a charge of suffering gambling at the North Randall race track last week.

"We'll hope for better times next season," Devereux declared.

"We're not going to try to evade the law and if we're not able to operate as we have for the past half-century we may have to quit business."

Three employes of the North Randall course, arrested with Devereux, pleaded guilty to violation of the gambling law. The fine of $5 and costs was suspended.

NAME NEW YORK CHAMP ON U. S. OLYMPIC TEAM

New York, July 10—Alex Kaletchitz, New York state amateur heavyweight champion, has been chosen to fill the place on the American Olympic boxing team left vacant by the switch of George Hoffman, national amateur heavyweight champion, to the professional game.

Kaletchitz was the winner of an elimination contest staged by the amateur athletic union here last night.

WIN CONTEST

Taking advantage of seven errors, Claridon Sunday defeated Chesterville, 10 to 2.

It used to be enough enjoyment of a sunny Sunday morning to dress up in one's best clothes, sit in the sun and talk with a neighbor.

EAR HEALED

Injured Member Will Not Give Heeney Target in Bout

Speculator, N. Y., July 10—Gene Tunney's bruised ear is entirely healed and will not afford Thomas Heeney a choice target when the two heavyweights meet on July 26. Billy Vidabeck and Harold Mays took pot shots at the injured member in six rounds of sparring yesterday but the cut did not re-open, although it may blossom forth into a regulation cauliflower in time.

More boxing, but no roadwork, is on the program for today. The champion is coming along a trifle too fast to suit him, as he fears going stale before the big bout.

Most people know what they don't want—also that they don't often get what they do want.

PADDOCK HELD NOT GUILTY OF CHARGES; TO SAIL WITH TEAM

A. A. U. Moguls Convinced Sprinter's Amateur Status Remains Unsullied

New York, July 10 — When the American Olympic team sails down the bay on the President Roosevelt Wednesday, Charlie Paddock, the "world's fastest human," will be aboard and eagerly looking forward to victory at Amsterdam.

"I'll do my best to win for America," the famous sprinter declared following his exoneration of charges of professionalism by the Amateur Athletic union last night.

The A. A. U. moguls finally were convinced that Paddock's amateur status was unsullied as a result of his activities in moving pictures and his personal appearance on the stage with his picture. Paddock attended the hearing and signed an affidavit that he was not paid for his film work.

Weaver Defends Sprinter

The clearing of Paddock came after a lengthy deliberation in the office of the A. A. U., in which Dan Ferris, chairman of the National Registration committee, and Bob Weaver, president of the Southern Pacific association and vice-president of the American Olympic committee took the leading parts.

TUNNEY-HEENEY FIGHT TO DRAW CAPACITY HOUSE

At Least That's What Walsh Believes After Looking Over Situation; "Lack of Interest Will Be Best Card in Rickard's Deck

New York, July 10—After painstaking inquiry into the situation, I am able to declare today that there is absolutely no interest in the Tunney-Heeney heavyweight championship fight, scheduled for July 26, except among those who are going about saying that there is absolutely no interest in it. I, therefore, am forced to the assumption that the affair will play to a sell out, leaving those identified with it nothing to do but retire to a life of ease and great retirement. The interest among those who say there is no interest has become almost appalling during recent days.

As a matter of fact, if they were laid end on end—well, as a matter of fact, if you did anything else with them you would be doing them a personal favor. Mr. Rickard doesn't plan to be so considerate. He expects to stand them toe to heel before the box office and let nature take its course.

Money Is Big Question

Anyhow, for a populace that is supposed to be lukewarm toward the situation, there is an awful lot of people in this town intrigued by the question of whether the fight will make money or return Rickard a profit. To be more explicit, will it or will it? I'll admit this is a very exacting kind of question and, while the boys are wandering about in their abstraction trying to solve same, it seems possible that they will go to the Yankee stadium on the night of the twenty-sixth in order to get the answer first hand.

The fight itself is no attraction and never was. But the people who are so positive it is nothing, have made it something by their reiterations.

Sales Reach $350,000

Rickard estimated yesterday that his advance sales have reached about $350,000. He repeated that the gate would go far over a million dollars. He added that everybody connected with it would make money. It is one thing to talk up a proposition months in advance; quite another, to make a fool statement only two weeks ahead of time, leaving the door open for this to be remembered and held against you. It is doubtful if Rickard is that kind of a mouth organ.

For one thing, he has found it to be good business and get himself a reputation for being right almost every time out. His natural tendency would be to preserve this reputation.

If Rickard waits until this late date to re-affirm his old estimates of the crowd and gate, it mightn't be a second class idea to take his word for it, pending further developments.

A Used Car Is Unused Transportation

A GOOD automobile is built to stand years of use; but the average first owner trades it in after only two years.

THIS means that there are many thousands of miles of unused transportation which may be bought at a low price and enjoyed by the second owner.

WHILE not all the cars that are now being traded in are relatively new, among them you will find opportunities in cars whose intrinsic value is greater than their selling price—and that which millions of families have already discovered.

Because of the great number of new cars sold by us, our stocks of cars taken in trade offer a wide range of used car values. And the G. M. A. C. plan of payments is available for the purchaser of used as well as new cars.

Wall Street Moves Through Irregular and Reactionary Period

STEEL CORPORATION INCREASES TONNAGE

Active Motor and Specialty Stocks Go Down Under Pressure

New York, July 10—Dullness and irregularity were the principal features of the speculative and slightly reactionary stock market today. Though the public seemed to a considerable volume of funds from the call loan market, there was sufficient influx of new money to maintain the six per cent rate as the ruling rate and no particular strain was apparent in money market circles.

Contrary to expectation, the United States Steel Corporation reported in its quarterly forward-tonnage statement an increase of 220,000 tons in its June 30 unfilled orders on hand June 30 being 5,637,000 tons against 5,416,022 on May 31. The steel stocks were firm in the early trading, but were unable to withstand the outpouring of late sell orders without a moderate decline in prices, a number of the social investments losing from one to three points.

Professionals found the path of least resistance for the active motor and specialty stocks to be downward. In the early afternoon and selling pressure was therefore brought to bear upon General Motors, Radio, Vanadium, U. S. Steel common and other market favorites. U. S. Steel dropped to or two points under the previous closing price and losses of a point or more were sustained by Crucible, Bethlehem and Vanadium.

The reaction in the motor stocks resulted from heavy profit-taking in the issue shares. Commission houses were in disagreement as to the next movement in the motor shares, and pending more definite developments in the industry, as affecting second-half sales prospects, many traders were reported lightening their load of the popular motor stocks. Nash, Studebaker, Chrysler, Packard and Hupp lost about a point on the average.

You can't procure contentment with money for the fact that the converse is equally true arrests the force of the proposition.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, July 10—Not in many a day have the grain markets presented such a spectacle as yesterday when crashing prices left the pits a litter of wrecked optimism and shattered good things.

At the end wheat was down 3½ to 4c; corn was down 2¾ to 4½c; oats were down 1⅝ to 5½c; rye was down 4½c to 5⅝c.

There was not a single bright spot for bulls—not even a startling explanation in the news to account for the sensational giving way of prices. Some fearful Republicans suggested it was a premonitary symptom of a Democratic victory next fall.

As a matter of fact, the breaks in all the grains looked like belated liquidation. Longs, bereft of hope by fine weather, crop conditions and the lack of outside buying, began to let go of their holdings. Nobody but shorts appeared to want what was offered for sale.

Government Report Today

This afternoon the July government report is due and the trade generally, expecting a bearish estimate on all crops, may stand on the sideline until the report has been issued.

The worst of the break in most of the grains came late in the session, but never from the start was there really any promise of an upturn. All the futures in all the grains made their high prices for the day at the opening of immediately afterward.

The smash in the nearby oats futures was particularly startling because of the high prices at which cash oats have been, and still are, selling. It furnished an example of the danger of depending too much upon cash prices when considering the value of futures.

Looks Ominous

The weakening of the corn futures seemed to bode no good to the July deal. The widening out of the spread between the July future and the September aroused the suspicion that big bulls in the former might be selling the latter in the hope of working out of a bad position.

Certainly, if purchases of July contracts for delivery were founded upon a sound demand in the cash market, it would seem as if the September should hold its own.

But there is, or was, a big bear interest in September corn. Most of the "grain services" have been advising purchasing this and holding on to it. How this will ultimately turn out remains to be seen. The situation does not seem to have by any means cleared itself yet.

The yearly forecast of corn as dangerous to bulls in Domestic corn has been heavily sold on the prospect of a bumper new crop. The prospect, however, may change before that period is out.

MARION WOMAN DIES AT DAUGHTER'S HOME

Mrs. Melissa Gill, 78, Claimed from Complications of Diseases

As a result of a fractured left hip and a complication of diseases developing from infirmities of age, Mrs. Melissa Gill, 78, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edna Williams, 157 North Grand av. Death came at 5:45 o'clock after an illness of four weeks.

Mrs. Gill became ill when she fell and fractured her hip while descending the steps at her daughter's home about four weeks ago.

Funeral services will be held at Mrs. Williams' home, 157 North Grand av., at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Dr. J. L. George, pastor of Epworth M. E. church, will officiate and interment will be in Marion cemetery.

Mrs. Gill was the daughter of Benjamin and Catherine Fisher, pioneer residents of Richwood. She was married to Frank Gill April 21, 1868. Mr. Gill, a Civil war veteran, died Jan. 8, 1887.

Mrs. Gill was a member of Epworth M. E. church and of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Frank Edsell of Pique, O., three sons, William and George Gill of Los Angeles, Cal., and Harry Gill of this city; one sister, Mrs. Viola Broknw of Detroit; one brother, William Fisher of Richwood; 12 grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Haberman has been distributor here for a year and a half, when the company was moved to Marion from Bucyrus.

VICTIM OF DOG BITE REPORTED IMPROVED

Animal, Now Under Observation, Shows No Signs of Rabies

James Shafer, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Shafer, 203 Erie st., who was bitten by a dog belonging to the Mewhorter family, 349 Owens st., Sunday, was reported to be better today.

That the dog, which is being kept under observation by Sanitary Commissioner C. M. Tobin and Dr. J. T. Gruber, for any development of rabies, will not be killed for at least ten days, was revealed by Dr. Gruber yesterday. The animal, he said showed no signs of the disease.

The Shafer boy with other children, was playing in the Mewhorter home Sunday afternoon when the animal attacked him, throwing him to the ground and inflicting wounds on his head, both arms and right leg. Rolling out of the reach of the dog the boy prevented more serious injuries.

LAUNCHES ATTACK ON "PARKING HOG"

Auto Club Secretary Starts Campaign To Remedy Parking Evil

An attack on the "parking hog" whose automobile men say is becoming even more common than the "road hog" was launched by Mrs. D. Y. Gallagher, secretary of the Marion Auto Club today.

"The business districts of both small and large communities offer a problem in the matter of parking space that, while not entirely solvable by a changed attitude, can be made less acute and difficult by the display of courtesy on the part of the average motorist," Mrs. Gallagher says. "Slovenly parking is a mark of selfishness that is getting to be more and more emphatic as the motor car comes into greater and greater use.

"There is very little excuse for parking under any circumstances. It may take more time to drive into a space in such a way as to use no more of it than is absolutely necessary, but certainly it is time well spent. The 'road hog' is an old and dishonorable figure in modern dom. The 'parking hog' is becoming even more common than the 'road hog.' In some respects, he is even more of a nuisance.

"It seems high time that the average driver began to look into his parking technique. If he is guilty of careless parking habits he will have no difficulty in locating his faults if he will but take the trouble to conduct a self inventory.

"There is room for improvement in parking courtesy and it is up to the individual car owner to correct his own attitude in this vital respect."

"B" IN OATSBLADE

Large Crop Forecast As Letter Is Found on Oat Stalks

FARMERS of Marion county and townsfolk as well, pricked up their ears with wonder recently when some observing citizen announced his discovery that the "B's are in the oatsblade."

The high-sounding phrase simply means that instead of the usual "P" a perfect "B" is formed in the blade of every oat stalk this year.

While "P" generally means a poor crop of oats the "B" is believed to predict a "bumper crop." It is taken by some to be indicative of "blood and war."

In the days when William Jennings Bryan strove for the presidency some even went so far as to prophecy that since the "B" in the oatsblade then corresponded with the "B" in Bryan, the latter would be victorious in the race for the executive chair.

To farmers however the "B" simply is a legendary prediction of an unusually large crop.

Dodge Brothers Standard Six is the fastest car, with the fastest pick-up, under a thousand dollars.

HOWEVER

That is only HALF the story. The IMPORTANT point is that this exceptional speed is made practical by Dodge ruggedness of chassis and body construction

OTHERS

Might succeed in building a car at this price with equal SPEED, but to do so successfully they would also have to build a car with equal STURDINESS

AND

That is where Dodge Brothers, with years of experience in building a dependable low-cost product, are years ahead of the field.

YOU

Can buy the Standard Six knowing that it is not only the fastest car in its class but the sturdiest—and the one is every bit as important as the other

RICHWOOD HOSTESS HAS CHURCH GROUP AS GUESTS

Richwood, July 10—The Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. J. B. Barker, East Bisgrove st., Friday afternoon with a good attendance. After the devotionals in charge of Miss Nora Lake, and the business session, a short program was given: readings by Mrs. W. T. Williams, Mrs. Owen Livingston and Mrs. Rella Boggs, were followed by the mite box opening and prayer by Mrs. E. I. Fissell. Refreshments were served.

FARMERS WIN STEP IN FIGHT FOR ROAD

Claridon Township Trustees Grant Improvement of Whetstone River rd.

Farmers living along the Whetstone River rd. won another step in their fight for an improved road last night when the board of trustees of Claridon township granted the road and approved the assessments of the county surveyor, Cecil R. Leavens, who is engineer for the project.

Whether objectors to the project will obtain an injunction to prevent the board of trustees from continuing with the road improvement was not known this morning. Chief objectors to the proposed improvement of the road failed to appear at the meeting last night. Threats that an injunction would be served were made at a recent meeting.

PROVIDE FUND FOR MARKING STREETS

Council Transfers Sums from Other Departments for Work

Provisions for payment for streets' marking this spring were made by city council at its meeting last night. An ordinance transferring the sum of $100 from stationery and printing, $100 from the fund for criminal inspection and $300 from the fund for autos and repair to the fund for marking of the streets was passed by the council. No fund for this wo... was provided when the budget for the year was prepared in January.

Council also authorized Safety Director Strayer to continue the employment of Carl Tozzer as building inspector for another six months at the salary of $200 a month. The plan of holding a civil service examination at this time, was temporarily abandoned.

LOCAL ORDER PLANS TO ATTEND MEETING

Members of Marion Commandery No. 36 To Leave Monday for Detroit

Plans to attend the triennial Knights Templar conclave to be held in Detroit, July 17, are being made by members of Marion Commandery No. 36, Knights Templar. A large number of the local commandery are expected to attend the gathering, which will be featured by a parade, Tuesday afternoon. Members of the local order will leave the city at 12:30 o'clock Monday night, arriving at Detroit Tuesday morning. Returning they will leave Detroit Tuesday night, arriving home at about six o'clock Wednesday morning.

Members of the commandery are also planning a meeting July 26, which they say will be one of the largest for several years. The three degrees of the order will be conferred on a class of candidates in a program opening at three o'clock in the afternoon. A six o'clock dinner will be a feature of the meeting.

We know some men who claim to be self-made who undoubtedly cheated themselves.

MARION WATER CO. WITHIN FRANCHISE

Report of Favorable Tests of City Water Hardness Made to Council

That the Marion Water Co. is keeping within the 12 degrees of hardness provision fixed by the franchise, was shown in the report of tests made since June 26 which was submitted to city council by Floyd W. Browne, city chemist and superintendent of the sewage disposal plant, last night.

Only once in that period did the water contain more than 12 degrees of hardness. June 28 the hardness was shown to have been 13.3 degrees. June 26 the water showed 10.1 degrees, June 30, 12 degrees, July 2, 9.8 degrees, July 4, 9.9 degrees and July 6, 10.2 degrees. The water is taken from the hydrant at the central fire station for testing.

The cost of repairing the broken sewer tile on Cunapher-av, which, according to Building Inspector Carl Tozer, resulted in the sanitary sewage from 400 homes going into the storm water sewer, was given as $280.71 in a statement submitted to council by Service Director Benedict last night. The repair of the broken sewer is a part of the campaign being carried on by the building inspector toward correcting the pollution of Rock Saule ditch and the Little Sciotto River. The broken tile was discovered by the inspector.

IS SLIGHTLY INJURED

Martel, July 10—Mrs. M. E. Crissinger was slightly injured Sunday when the car which she was driving overturned into a deep ditch south of New Winchester. Other occupants of the car escaped without injuries. The car was slightly damaged.

An author writes a great story; 40 years after he is dead a millionaire buys the paper it is written on for $40,000. That's fame.

Ritzy Rosalie

Whether Rosalie is shampooing her hair, or whether it should be called dry cleaning, is a question for debate. Such fluids as naphtha and benzine have heretofore been considered cleansing agents for fabrics only, but Rosalie heard that it also cleans the hair. Carbon tetrachloride is also used. Of course she rinses her hair several times afterward, but even at that it might not be wise to light a match close by too soon.

STAR PERFORMERS

Elephants and pretty girls will be found in great numbers with John Robinson's Circus, when it comes to Marion for two exhibitions on Saturday, July 14. Stella Cronin from Australia, Alma Dedie from France and Rose Miller, an American trainer, will handle the several herds. This trio of beauties will make the big brutes perform stunts and feats which up to now have been listed as impossible.

John Robinson comes with an entire new performance from beginning to end. "King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba," a gorgeous and exotic spectacle calling for the services of over 600 characters will open the show. The wild animals will be subjugated by Mabel Stark, Theodore Schroeder, Ione Carle, Terrell Jacobs and Bert Noyes.

International features include the Riding Rudynoffs from Austria; the Seven Molay Arabs; the Walter Guice Family from Holland; Johnny Correria and his troupe of American riders; Walter Powell, Tetu Harriman, the LaFrance Sisters and others. Forty clowns will work in the various rings and on the hippodrome track.

BIRTHS OF COUNTY OUTNUMBER DEATHS

Fourteen Babies, Eight Boys and Six Girls, Reported During June

Births in Marion county, not including the city of Marion, last month were twice the number of deaths according to the report completed today in the office of the county health commissioner, Dr. N. Sifritt.

Fourteen births were reported to the health commissioner. There were seven deaths.

Eight of the new Marion county babies were boys and six were girls. Scott township led with four visits from the stork. Prospect township, Big Island township, Richland township and Pleasant township tied for second place with two births each. One each was reported from Marion and Prairie townships.

Of the deaths three were children under 12 years of age.

The deaths were attributed to the following causes: Cerebral hemorrhage, inanition, automobile accident, diabetes, impaction of the intestine, angina pectoris, and uremic convulsion.

Two deaths were reported from Tully township during June. One each was reported from Richland township, Green Camp township, Pleasant township, Montgomery township and Agosta.

HOLDS PICNIC MEET

Green Camp Church Group Gathers at School Building

Green Camp, July 10 — The Glad Hand class of the Methodist church held its annual picnic dinner Sunday in the gymnasium of the school building. A long table was spread from which 40 class members and their families were served. A program of stunts was enjoyed at 2:30 o'clock, followed by a talk by Mrs. Grace Parlett Sifritt, of Marion, on Japan, and other incidents of her trip abroad. Mrs. Lorena Coff, former class teacher, also gave a short talk. The class guests were Miss Craig, of Ada, a guest at the home of Mrs. Ola Laulus, Mrs. Sifritt, Mrs. Lorena Coff and Harold Cobb, of Marion.

Relief May Come Tonight or Wednesday from Terrific Thunderstorms

sending the mercury into the 70 degree division and during the night as low as 60 degrees in some sections.

The thunder storms forecast are the tailend of yesterday's disturbances which centered in the vicinity of Lake Superior and swept on into northeastern Canada, from where they will descend into Ohio.

In the opinion of W. H. Alexander of the Columbus weather bureau, Ohio will not have normal temperature until the latter part of the week. The low pressure area continues to hover over Ohio and until atmospheric conditions change no permanent relief will be assured.

According to reports from over the state 23 persons have died as a result of the present heat wave. Although the heat has been extremely unpleasant, Alexander states that during the first nine days of July, three days have been normal, three days three degrees above and three days four degrees above normal, using average temperatures of the state for the comparisons.

Sees Different Situation

"Conditions in that section are very different from those which have prevailed in other national campaigns.

"An organized effort is in progress in several southern states to defeat the national Democratic ticket, and while the force and volume of this movement is not yet known, I am of the opinion that sound policy should prompt our party managers to meet this opposition decisively and promptly."

WILL NAME CHAIRMAN

Senator Perry Expected To Be Choice of Democratic Committee

Albany, N. Y., July 10—Governor Al Smith today will go to New York where he will meet with the Democratic national committee, Wednesday, map his campgain plans, pick up a new national chairman and fix the date for his notification ceremony.

The governor planned to motor to Bear Mountain Park, 110 miles down the Hudson river, where he will address a Boy Scout outing, pay a brief visit to the New York National Guard camp near Peekskill and then continue on to New York, arriving there early in the evening.

If his present plans are carried out the governor will confer tonight with Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, one of the leading contenders for the presidential nomination but who subsequently promised to support Smith. In working on his campaign Senator Reed was one of the first men to whom Governor Smith turned. According to close friends of Smith, Reed's advice will be followed pretty closely by the governor throughout the campaign.

Unless there are last minute changes Senator Peter G. Perry of Rhode Island is expected to be the new national chairman. He has long been a close friend of the governor and was described by New York Democratic leaders as one of the hardest Smith workers at the national convention.

FOOS MURDER TRIAL JURY IS COMPLETED

State To Ask Death Penalty for Everett Koon

cellar at this time, Patton declared.

Believing that the prowler had left the house Mr. and Mrs. went upstairs to determine if any thing had been taken. On returning to the first floor Mr. Foos was confronted by the intruder who Attorney Patton said was Koon. Pointing to the prisoner, Patton pictured him as being more than a match physically for the aged Mr. Foos.

Holds Rock in Hand

The intruder, Patton told the jury, held a rock in his hand with which he struck Mr. Foos over the head. Patton told the jury that the prowler knocked the aged man to the floor and beat and kicked him.

Mrs. Foos entered the fray, according to Patton, in response to a plea of "Ma, help me," from her husband. Mrs. Foos received a blow on the face that confined her to her bed for several weeks.

Compared to yesterday the trial moved much more swiftly. Only once this morning was there a pause in the steady examination of prospective witnesses.

Court proceedings paused for about 10 minutes as Attorney Johnson and the prisoner made a final study of the tentative jurors. A hush fell over the courtroom when it was realized that a jury had probably been selected. Shortly afterward attorneys for both sides announced their satisfaction with the jurymen.

Rarely Looks Up

The prisoner rarely looked up from the table this morning. He sat beside his attorney, apparently intent on the study of papers and notes. Although Mrs. Foos passed within an arm's length of him as she was assisted to her seat immediately behind the counsel table, Koon gave no indication that he saw her.

Mrs. Foos was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Bird, with whom she has been making her home since the death of her husband.

The courtroom was packed almost to capacity with standing room at a premium this morning. The buzz of voices in the outer halls that bothered the court yesterday was not so noticeable today.

Although the temperature in the courtroom had somewhat abated today, the jurors were permitted to remove their coats. So far the jury has been allowed freedom during intermissions and recesses. Whether Judge Scofield will continue this policy after the introduction of the first testimony is not known.

It was thought probable that at least some of the state's witnesses would be called to the stand this afternoon. Mrs. Foos, who is said to have identified Koon, will be the star witness for the state.

Final selection of the jury was completed at 9:40 o'clock this morning after six names were called from the addition to the special venire. Thirty-six names were drawn from the jury wheel yesterday afternoon following the adjournment of court when the venire of 65 names was exhausted.

All Men in Jury

Nelson G. Irvin, 376 Greenwood st; Harry Ammann, 691 Delaware av; N. E. Arnold, 372 South Main st; George Neeley, 292 East Church st; Miles Longshore, 206 South State st; Daniel Setter, R. F. D. 1, Marion; John L. Beringer, R. F. D. 7, Marion; Joseph Arthur, 604 South Prospect st; Jacob Carey, R. F. D. 2, Agosta; James W. Bain, 641 East Center st; Adam Bauer, 126½ South Main st; and Charles Wetterauer, R. F. D. 2, Prospect.

The defense exercised six of its 16 preemptory challenges before Attorney Homer E. Johnson and the prisoner, Everett Koon, were finally satisfied with the selection. Those excused by the defense on preemptory challenges were J. P. Robinson, R. F. D. 2, Morral George Hildebrand, 1263 East Center st., Samuel Wolfinger, R. F. D. 4, Marion, Guy Hord, R F. D. 4, Marion, Ray Geer, 596 Mt. Vernon av., and C. G. Oehler, R. F. D. 3, Prospect

Woman Dismissed

Mrs. Orpha Johnson of Green Camp the only woman to be tentatively seated in the jury box was dismissed on a preemptory challenge by the state's attorneys. The jury is composed entirely of men.

The names added to the venire were more productive of jurors than the list of 22 called during the afternoon session yesterday. Five of the six called this morning were tentatively seated and three were retained on the final selection. Out of the 22 persons examined yesterday afternoon only two were tentatively seated and both of those were dismissed by the defense this morning.

When court recessed at noon yesterday a full box had been tentatively seated. But with the dismissal of three and the replacement of two, only 11 remained when court opened this morning.

J. P. Robinson was the first to be dismissed by the defense. Guy Hord, the ninth person called to replace Robinson was tentatively seated. Of the nine called, two were opposed to capital punishment and six stated that they had already formed an opinion on the case.

Mrs. Bertha Stanley, 235 Thew av., and A. F. Harruff, 203 East Farming st., stated that they could not return a verdict that would sentence any one to death.

Six Formed Opinions

The six who had formed opinions were Miss Emma O'Brien, 485 East Church st., Mrs. Flora K. Price, 218 Olney av., Mrs. Marguerite Woods, Lafayette st., Peter H. Neidig, 190 East Church st., H. H. Noyes, LaRue, R. F. D. 1, and A. M. Fetter, R. F. D. 6, Marion.

George Hildebrand was next excused and to fill his place it was necessary to examine 11 prospective jurors. Samuel Wolfinger was the one selected but he was immediately excused on a preemptory challenge by the defense. With the calling of J. B. Fletcher, R. F. D. 2, Agosta, the venire was exhausted and court was adjourned until this morning.

Two more opponents of capital punishment were found among the 12 called to replace Hildebrand. Nine had formed opinions

Mrs. Lida B. Gunder, 564 East Center st., and Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, 216 Hane av. were the opponents of the death penalty.

Those who had formed opinions were Abe Schoen, 143 North Main st., Mrs. Alice Zimmerman, 230 West Columbia st., Charles Klunk, Marion Hotel, Mrs. Mayme H. Frank, 214 West Church st., John Furstenberger, R. F. D. 1, Marion, A. E. Mantz, 300 Lafayette st., H. C. Hipsher, R. F. D. 1, Caledonia, Frank Campbell, 404 South Vine st., W. L. Morral, 391 South State st.

First Called Today

With Hildebrand's place still vacant this morning the first to be called was C. G. Oehler who was tentatively seated. The defense then exercised its fourth challenge by dismissing Guy Hord Gertrude Stump, 315 Linden pl. stated that her opinion was formed and was dismissed by the court. James W. Bain, the next to be called, filled the box.

Ray Geer was excused and Adam Bauer took his place. Mrs. Orpha Johnson took the place of C. G. Oehler when he was excused. Mrs. Johnson was immediately challenged, leaving the seat still vacant. Charles Wetterauer was the last to be seated.

Before passing upon the jury Attorney Johnson asked the members if they still believed that they could assume the prisoner innocent until proven guilty. Prosecutor Wiedemann asked again if the jurymen still believed they could return a verdict of guilty without a recommendation of mercy if they were satisfied that the prisoner was guilty as charged. There were no responses to either question and both attorneys stated that they were satisfied with the jury.

A pastor down in Texas was jailed and fifty women members of his congregation were threatened with arrest for keeping at work on a tabernacle down there after a court had enjoined a continuation of the work until the merit of a charge by near-by residents, that it was a fire risk, could be heard. Of course, had the injunction been defied by a lot of unregenerates, it very probably could have been referred to as another manifestation of defiance of the law.

Loss of the Angamos.

The story of the loss of the Chilean army transport, Angamos, which crashed into a rock at Punta Chimpel near the south Chilean town of Lebu, is sickening in its details. After crashing into the rock, the vessel broke in two and sank with almost all aboard.

The story of the four survivors of the terrible three-hour struggle in the darkness for life preservers, for places in the boats, which were launched only to founder in the heavy seas, for holds by which to cling to bits of wreckage, is one of horror. Wireless communication had been established with other vessels before the captain realized that his ship was sure to be destroyed and shot himself, but they were too far away to be of assistance. When they reached the scene nothing but bits of wreckage, floating here and there, was to be seen. All evidences of life had disappeared.

The Angamos made a couple of stops after leaving Punta Arenas, the southernmost city of the world, loaded with coal for the Chilean navy in northern waters and having aboard a crew of 215 and from seventy-five to eighty-five passengers. Reaching the Gulf of Arauco, naval freight was being loaded when a heavy storm came up. Rather than risk a storm so close to a dangerous coast, the captain took the transport out into the open sea to battle it there. The Arganos was an old ship, built for the Italian navy in 1890, and was unable to withstand the awful buffeting of the wind and waves. Helpless, with rudder smashed and torn away, she drifted onto the rock.

It may be taken that such horrors are always possible at sea, and they are, off such a coast as that of southern Chile and with vessels such as the Angamos, but a staunch, new, up-to-date vessel very probably would have escaped destruction in such a storm as that which last week wrecked this Chilean transport. But even with rudder gone, vessels with two or more propellers are able to steer by them and ride out storms far worse than that which exacted a toll of something like 300 human lives. The Atlantic liners which ply between the United States and Europe were forced to withstand far worse ones repeatedly the past winter and escaped without the loss of a life.

It may seem heartless to say it, but the life loss off the Chilean coast last Friday night was in large measure due, if one is to judge by cuts and descriptions of the one-time Citta de Venezia, to the fact that a vessel was kept in use years after it should have been junked.

Council Should Be Supported.

Were there less uncertainty regarding the utilization of the air as a means of transportation and communication, there might be some excuse for delay in the matter of the location and construction of a local airport, but everything goes to show that air machines have come to stay. The use of the air may not be developed for many years to come, possibly not in the lifetime of a goodly percentage of us, to the extent to which the motor car has developed highway travel, but such will be its use in the very near future that any city the size of Marion will be forced to confess itself wholly out of touch with the spirit of the times, hopelessly out of the running, unless it is equipped with an airport.

If this is a fair premise, and it safely may be taken to be, then why should there be delay? In the language of the advertisement, "Eventually; why not now?" Why should not all Marion get squarely behind this movement in which the Junior chamber of commerce has shown such commendable initiative?

It is pleasing to note that the members of the city council have manifested and are manifesting interest in the project. It is right that they should. They have been selected by the voters of the city to look after the city's affairs and guard its interests, and certainly they can not do so to better advantage than by keeping the city, save when financial stress may make such a course impossible, abreast with the times. They have recognized the need of a local airport, and have indicated that they are friendly to the campaign to establish one, but some money is involved in the project. It is a trifling sum as city expenditures go—we mean the sum necessary to acquire one by rental—yet no matter how trifling the amount may be, when it comes to the introduction, locally, of innovations, members of council like to feel that they have the support of the community behind them. They like to have the approval of their fellow-citizens, and they should have it in this connection. As a matter of fact, we believe that they have it, but they should know that they have it.

It is a well-known fact, and a lamentable one, that those who approve a proposition are far less liable to voice their approval than are those opposed to it to voice their disapproval. Those who do not approve, are ever inclined to make known their disapproval. In fact, it may be taken as a rule that one opponent of a proposition for a city improvement will devote more time and attention to fighting it than a hundred favorable to it will give up to its support. Here we have the foundation for the view that silence means assent. Here is the groundwork for the view that one many generally distinguish the minority by the noise it makes.

But even though no opposition be offered, members of council should have more support than that of a negative character which silence implies. They should have the positive support of their fellow-citizens in this connection. Citizens should go out of their way, if necessary, to give council members assurance of support. And this should apply not in the present case alone, but in the case of every worthy proposition advanced for the welfare and development of the city. Members of council will always hear enough in the way of objection and disapproval. They should hear as well from those friendly to any proposition which may arise for solution or accomplishment. They probably will not, but they should.

Care for Baby's Nose.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A watchful doctor observes many things which shock him. He knows that physical suffering will follow what the careless actor never gives a thought. For instance, many a mother cumbered about with household cares picks up her skirt and wipes the running nose of her snuffling child.

Don't laugh. You have seen this done a hundred times.

This skirt has been swishing over the dusty, germ-littered sidewalks or basement floor. If there is any truth whatever in the germ theory of disease, there must be clinging to that skirt billions of disease-producing organisms.

But even if the dress isn't used in this way, it may be the family handkerchief instead. It isn't pleasant to talk about, but I am anxious to bring home to every mother the importance of proper care of baby's nose.

Many diseases are hand conveyed. It is probable that influenza, pneumonia and the common cold are transmitted in this manner.

Earache is due to an infection passing from the nose to the ear. If one child has an earache, due to the extension of an inflammation from the nose, you can readily see what the danger is. The nasal discharges from the sick child, if conveyed to another child, will cause a similar inflammation of the nose and, pretty soon earache will follow.

The common use of mother's handkerchief may be responsible for all the trouble. The eating utensils, drinking glasses, and all the toilet articles used by the sick child must never be used by another member of the family.

The baby's nose should be carefully cleaned by the freshly and thoroughly washed hands of the mother. If the child is too young to be taught to blow his nose on his own handkerchief, the nasal cavities must be cleaned out by the use of cotton.

Wrap a clean wooden toothpick with a layer of cotton, making it about the thickness of a slate pencil. With this, carefully wipe out the nasal passages, going in only so far as you can see when the child is lying on his back in good light. You will do no harm when you see what you are doing. But do not work in the dark.

To soften any hard substance that can not be readily removed, squeeze into the nose a bit of white vaseline. This should be squirted in from the tube in which the vaseline comes. After a few minutes the nose can be wiped with the cotton-covered toothpick.

If the child is "snuffly," or sleeps with his mouth open as a result of the cold, a little of the vaseline left in the nose will relieve the swelling and add to the comfort of the little patient.

Every "running nose" requires attention. Care of every acute condition will result frequently in speedy cure of the cold.

If every mother would give attention to the scrupulous cleanliness of baby's nose many a child would escape adenoids, tonsilitis, bronchitis and pneumonia. Care of the nose in childhood means freedom from catarrh in adult life. Freedom from catarrh means escape from deafness.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

E. P. T. Q—About a year ago my ear drum was injured, and ever since there has been a noise in that ear. What should I do?

A—I would advise you to consult an ear specialist.

D. H. Q—How can tattooing be made less noticeable or removed and whom should one consult concerning such procedure?

A—Consult a plastic surgeon or skin specialist and he will advise after examination.

Editorial Opinion.

PATRIOTISM IN THE SCHOOLROOM.

The glory of peace, rather than the glory of war, should be taught in the public schools, Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, president of Boston university, tells the National Education association at its Minneapolis convention.

Constructive patriotism, he believes, would forego the idolization of martial heroes and stress the greatness of statesmen who intelligently lead nations over the quicksands of progress without involving them in wars. So far, so good. That war is a terrible thing, to be avoided by every honorable means, is something that should be taught in the schools. For that matter, it is already being taught.

But let no citizen forget that the United States was once a feeble group of coastal settlements, that the United States today is the world's most prosperous and potentially most powerful nation, and that this amazing metamorphosis was achieved largely because genuine patriotism has been taught for a century and a half in the American schoolroom.

"Military music," says Dr. Marsh, "is sweet as hell, because it makes us love the things we hate."

Military music is sweet, because it makes us love the things we should love. Exceptional, indeed, is the man, the woman or the child who does not thrill to the music of the band playing "The Stars and Stripes Forever," as the flag goes by.

This is as it should be, and for this the nation owes to a dozen generations of American school teachers an incalculable debt. Every war in which this country has been engaged since it first set up its own government, has been won in the schoolroom, from ten to fifty years before the first gun was fired: Patriotic teaching in the first half of the nineteenth century saved the union when the crisis came. Indeed, the view is reasonable that, if more of national patriotism, as contrasted with local patriotism, had been taught in the ante-bellum schools of eleven Southern states, there never would have been any civil war.

Old world tyranny has gone from the Western hemisphere today, because, in the three of four decades following the civil war, children in the public schools were taught that to honor the flag, and to bear arms in defense of the flag, were sacred obligations of American citizenship. Instead of sawing wood at Doorn today, the former kaiser would be dictating to the world from Potsdam, had not American school teachers, twenty, thirty and forty years ago, been teaching their pupils that patriotism was something to be served with deeds as well as words.

Let us teach American school children that war's horrors far exceed war's glories, that international violence is a folly to be avoided by every honorable means, that the statesman who leads the nation upward without resort to war is greater than he who plunges the nation into an avoidable war. Let us teach American school children to beware of the jingo who preaches war for war's sake. Let us have no saber-clanking and no goose stepping.

But let us also continue to teach American school children to beware of the pacificist who preaches non-resistance to aggression, who professes to see an insurance of peace in foolish unpreparedness, and who paints military service as something to be ashamed of.

The American flag is the greatest flag in the world today, not so much because of wise statesmanship at Washington, as because of intelligent teaching of genuine patriotism by the men and women in charge of American school-rooms.—Minneapolis Journal.

Nature and Books.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

[illegible] study nature in books, when you go out of doors you can not find her." That sentence of Louis Agassiz's, quoted by Henry Fairfield Osborn at the unveiling a few weeks ago of a bust of Agassiz in the New York "Hall of Fame," makes the proverbs of Solomon—true and wise if properly understood. The object of such sayings is to shock and awaken the mind with an apparent paradox.

Of course, nobody can "study nature in books." The phrase is a conscious contradiction in terms. But it would be a great damage to the cause of popular interest in nature if what great that naturalist said should lead anybody to think that one must be a geologist, ichthyologist, botanist, entomologist, biologist or ornithologist in order to read about nature with understanding, enjoyment and profit. Most nature books are written for people who do not study natural objects at first hand. But everybody can understand such books if they are not too technical, and can learn from them a great deal about nature. Agassiz's remark in reality applies only to the needs of serious students and original investigators. It will be found that a very large share of every naturalist's information has been derived from reading—a statement that applies to all other students and learners whatever.

The actual researcher addresses his efforts to a narrow line of investigation, outside of which his ignorance is only enlightened by the lamps of borrowed knowledge. If it were not so of what use would be our vast and fast growing stores of scientific nature?

Yet it is true that every one should go to nature rather than to books as far as possible. But in the vast majority of cases he must at least begin with books, or else — which is usually better—with personal instruction by some kind of tutor. Take the beginner in astronomy, for instance. He may by earnest application learn the constellations and planets by the aid of printed descriptions and charts, but he can do it a hundred times as quickly by having them pointed out in the sky by some one who knows them already. So, too, with birds, flowers, trees, insects, fishes, rocks, soils, etc. Nothing is so effectual as personal guidance, and that implies "field work" in one sense or another.

But I would not have any one remain in complete ignorance of these things because he can find no other instructors than books. In the summertime when so many thousands are traversing the great and beautiful scenes of our land with automobiles—scenes crowded with masterpieces of nature in every department of her work—all should become observers as full of intelligent curiosity as a Humboldt. The interest of such trips may be enormously increased by taking along a few books that throw light upon the geography, the geology, the characteristic birds, plants and trees, the soils and productions of the counties and states that are crossed.

For too many a star is only a star and a rock only a stone, though one star may be Sirius, famous and worshipped by priests and kings from the oldest times of Egypt, and another may be Arcturus, which the Almighty is said to have spoken about to Job in the desert; and one "stone" at the roadside may be basalt, belched from the molten bowels of the earth when her mountains were born, and another may be sandstone laid down at the bottom of a primeval sea and filled with fossils of vanished creatures and with some of the oldest footprints of marching time. It is better to know these things even from books than not to know them at all.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, July 10—The spiritual distortion of the younger generation has provided an endless theme for writers, playwrights and moralists. If they are to be believed, flaming youth is burning out in a white-hot flame. New York is painted a paradise of adolescent wickedness.

The moment a child is able to reach for a cocktail here he begins to scamper off on a sin-stained career. The girl who reaches eighteen without being trundled off to an alcoholic cure is regarded as eccentric. At least this has become a growing notion.

Somehow the other side of the picture is never revealed. There is a young man of twenty who is studying dentistry. At 5 o'clock every evening he becomes a taxi driver until midnight. He reaches his college every morning at 8 and supports his mother.

There are two sisters who are waitresses in one of the chains of restaurants. Their working hours are from 7 in the evening until midnight. On account of their beauty they have had three theatrical offers—one from Ziegfeld, no less. They support themselves, as waitresses and do social welfare work during the day.

That the younger generation is not going to pot is also proved by the large number of ambitious young men who are working as bellhops, elevator operators, movie ushers and soda jerkers and devoting spare time to studying for a profession. These are numbered in the thousands.

Nor is this ambitious activity confined to sons and daughters of poverty-stricken homes. A recent social survey shows there are in New York more than 20,000 young men and women under twenty-five whose family affluence precludes the necessity of working, yet who have become financially independent.

And if one takes the trouble to visit the various social centers where intellectual entertainments are made possible for young folk they will find them crowded, indeed far more crowded than cheap dance halls and other haunts where youth is supposed to fling away morals and hope.

One of the well-known illustrators has his studio adjoining his home and it is here he turns out his enormous magazine output. Recently his wife employed a new maid. After a few days of seeing the artist around the house all day, the maid approached her mistress with the suggestion she would take a slight reduction in salary. "I'll do this," she explained, "until your husband gets on his feet."

An actor reveals a discouraging side of his calling. He is a popular leading man and has appeared in many sterling productions. One play in which he appeared on Broadway ran eighteen months. For the past two years he has had but three week's employment and while his salary was $850 a week he finds his pay averages much less than a small clerkship. But boys will be actors.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Building battleships beyond legitimate needs for defense is militarism. Battleships are altogether fighting instruments. They are never profitable implements of peace. Not so with airplanes. Building fleets of airplanes is not militaristic. This government will do well to encourage the building and use of planes. Their use in peaceful commercial pursuits grows enormously. And if war comes they can be converted into the most powerful weapons of offense and defense.

Germany has a new idea about schools. Germany has had many ideas about schools. That nation has long been among the leaders in education. There is a school over there now in which pupils deliver their own lectures. They have dominion over their own behavior. They take care of rules and discipline. It is a school for pupils who have special talent, who want to go fast in the development of the mind and who are able to go fast. We have "opportunity rooms" in this country. We have come to see the wisdom of giving good brains the best possible chance for development. Slow pupils should not be allowed to hold fast ones back.

Note four modern landmarks that light the upward path of mankind's movement. First, the World Federation of Education associations was formed some time ago. One of the purposes of the federation is to encourage the re-writing of history textbooks, cutting out the bias and giving the real facts.

Second, a star 10,000,000 times brighter than the sun has been discovered. We learn more about the universe, and other universes.

Third, a Chinese typewriter has been invented. The spread of popular education is the outstanding need of China.

Fourth, scientific surveys to establish exact longitude are under way. They form a basis of making new and accurate maps. They will have great commercial value.

We are too much excited about being first. So often being first means little. There is a craze for setting records. Somebody wants to sit on a flag pole longer than anybody else. Somebody wants to dance continuously for a few days and nights in the hope of being first to accomplish an absurd objective. It is much more important to determine, calmly, whether you are doing anything worth doing than it is merely to be out for a record.

strating against the paving of the street from Church st. to Center st. A resolution declaring the necessity of the paving was passed by city council at a meeting two weeks ago.

The petition, which was signed by Ella Clendenen, L. M. Bollander, L. S. Irey, S. Stout and C. E. Glassmyer, cited several reasons why the paving should not be done at this time. Among them being the fact that the paving was not needed and that as owners of corner lots they would be assessed for the paving of both Church st. and Pennsylvania av. The clerk was instructed to notify the signers of the petition that their remonstrance was presented too late.

The mayor's report for the month of June read at the meeting of council last night, showed $10 collected in licenses, $4.25 in registrations and $40.50 in building permits.

TWO MORE KILLED IN GANG WARFARE

Five Young Men in Sedan Mow Victims Down on Crowded Street

New York, July 10—Brooklyn's gang warfare flared up again last night, the toll being two dead and two wounded.

Police expressed the opinion today, however, that the murderers made a mistake and shot the wrong men. All four victims were Porto Rican longshoremen and had no known connection with any gang.

The murderers, five young men, shot from a fast moving green sedan and mowed down their victims with deadly accuracy. Only four bullets were fired and each found its mark.

Police believe the fire marksmen were involved in a feud as a result of the recent assassination of Frankie Yale, former king of Brooklyn's underworld, and may have been imported here from Chicago. The quintet escaped in the green sedan.

The dead were Tolitto Marrero, 22, and Florentino San Just, 19, the wounded are Rouble La Porto, 19, in a serious condition at Cumberland Street Hospital with a wound in the left jaw, and Isaac Garcia, 18, who was shot in the left shoulder.

The streets were crowded at the time of the shooting.

CLOSE SERVICES

More Than 100 Persons Respond to Altar Call at Tent Meeting

Beech, July 10—The two-weeks' revival camp meeting held from June 24 to July 8 closed Sunday night. Services were conducted by Evangelist Edna Beougher Hughs, of Lancaster, with gratifying results. More than 100 persons responded to the altar call during the two weeks' campaign.

Rev. J. E. Campbell, pastor of the Salem Evangelical church was assisted by Rev. G. E. Waddell, paster of the Canaan church, east of here.

The song services were in charge of Rev. J. E. Campbell throughout the meeting. Special numbers were given in song Sunday by Clyde Kelly, Columbus, and Rev. J. E. Campbell.

The Marion Calvary Male Chorus was present Sunday night and took part in singing. A duet was sung by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ellis of Cardington.

Sunday night the attendance more than filled the tent.

Birthday Party for Rev. G. A. Whitlock

Rev. George A. Whitlock, pastor of Wesley M. E. Church, was guest of honor at a birthday surprise party given last night in the church basement by about 125 of his friends. Tables for the picnic supper wer centered with roses and garden flowers, and the table at which Rev. Mr. Whitlock was seated was centered with a large lighted birthday cake.

Two piano solos were given by Harold Whitlock and two readings, "I Don't Want to Go To Bed," and "A Sunshine Child," by little Joan Boyd. Mrs. Charles Clark entertained with a vocal solo, "Lighten the Burden," followed by several readings by George Whitlock, Jr. "My thoughts of Heaven," a reading was given by Mrs. Pearl McCreary. Robert Reeve presented two readings and a vocal duet, "The Lord Abides," was sung by Mrs. Charles Clark and Miss Florence Upton. Mrs. George Whitlock gave two readings, "When Mary Recited," and "Husbands For Sale."

Rev. N. J. Reimar presided as chairman of the program and presented the gifts to Rev. Mr. Whitlock.

NEW METHOD RINSES RUST STAINS AWAY

Wash-basins and Bathtubs Freed From Discoloration—Made Gleaming White in 10 Minutes' Time

Dripping water causes these stains. Red Seal Lye rinses (not scours) them away in 10 minutes. Here's how to do it.

Just run the basin or tub partly full of hot water—enough to cover the stains, then shake in a little Red Seal Lye from the handy shaker can. The more water, the more Red Seal. Let it stand five minutes. Then empty and repeat the dose. Rinse with hot water and the stains are gone. Your basin or tub is spotless white again. No back-tiring scouring necessary. For Red Seal Lye is 97% pure—the purest, quickest, most economical lye made. No cheap adulterants to weaken its cleansing, purifying power. It melts away rust and grease like snow in the sun.

Not only for this, but for a dozen other purposes Red Seal Lye is a handy thing to have around the house. It purifies garbage pails in 3 minutes. It cleans the dirtiest, greasiest pot in the same time. Full directions for every use are given in a little folder enclosed within the cover top. Now (while you are thinking of it) jot down on your grocery list "Order 1 can Red Seal Lye." Keep your home spotlessly clean without scouring.

12 RADIO STATIONS GET HEARING TODAY

Included in 162 Protesting Against Cancellation of Broadcasting Rights

Washington, July 10—Twelve radio stations, principally of the northwest, today launched vitriolic attacks on the federal radio commission in protesting its decree ordering them off the air Aug. 1.

They constituted the day's list on the commission's docket of 107 stations opposing the ruling. At least two weeks' hearings are in prospect.

The series constituted the commission's first test of power over the air.

After the decisions will come the stiffer battle in the courts. The commission's ruling was declared to be "in the interest of radio betterment."

A number of the original 162 stations did not oppose the mandate.

Stations to be heard today are: WQJ, Chicago; KDLR, Devil's Lake, N. D., WEHS, Evanston, Ill.; WGWB, Milwaukee, Wis.; WOMT, Manitowoc, Wis.; WKBZ, Ludington, Mich.; WRAX, Philadelphia; WFBE, Cincinnati; WLBH, Fatmingdale, N. Y.; WBRE, Wilkesbarre, Pa.; WTAD, Quincy, Ill.; and WLBC, Muncie, Ind.

"At 4:30 Mrs. Inglethorp, in consequence of a conversation on the validity of wills, makes a will in favor of her husband, which the two gardeners witness.

"At 5 o'clock, Dorcas finds her mistress in a state of considerable agitation, with a slip of paper—'a letter,' Dorcas thinks—in her hand, and it is then that she orders the fire in her room to be lighted.

"Presumably, then, between 4:30 and 5 o'clock, something has occurred to occasion a complete revolution of feeling, since she is now as anxious to destroy the will, as she was before to make it. What was that something?

"As far as we know, she was quite alone during that half-hour. Nobody entered or left that boudoir. What then occasioned this sudden change of sentiment?

"One can only guess, but I believe my guess to be correct. Mrs. Inglethorp had no stamps in her desk. We know this, because later she asked Dorcas to bring her some. Now in the opposite corner of the room stood her husband's desk—locked. She was anxious to find some stamps, and, according to my theory, she tried her own keys in the desk. That one of them fitted I know.

"She therefore opened the desk, and in searching for the stamps she came across something else—that slip of paper which Dorcas saw in her hand, and which assuredly was never meant for Mrs. Inglethorp's eyes.

On the other hand, Mrs. Cavendish believed that the slip of paper to which her mother-in-law clung so tenaciously was a written proof of her own husband's infidelity. She demanded it from Mrs. Inglethorp who assured her, quite truly, that it had nothing to do with that matter. Mrs. Cavendish did not believe her. She thought that Mrs. Inglethorp was shielding her stepson.

"Now Mrs. Cavendish is a very resolute woman, and, behind her mask of reserve, she was madly jealous of her husband. She determined to get hold of that paper at all costs, and in this resolution chance came to her aid. She happened to pick up the key of Mrs. Inglethorp's dispatch-case, which had been lost that morning. She knew that her mother-in-law invariably kept all important papers in this particular case.

"Mrs. Cavendish, therefore, made her plans as only a woman driven desperate through jealousy could have done. Some time in the evening she unbolted the door leading into Mademoiselle Cynthia's room. Possibly she applied oil to the hinges, for I found that it opened quite noiselessly when I tried it.

"She put off her project until the early hours of the morning as being safer, since the servants were accustomed to hearing her move about her room at that time. She dressed completely in her land kit, and made her way quietly through Mademoiselle Cynthia's room into that of Mrs. Inglethorp."

He paused a moment, and Cynthia interrupted:

"But I should have wakened up if anyone had come through my room?"

"Not if you were drugged, mademoiselle."

"Drugged?"

"Mais, oui!"

"You remember"—he addressed us collectively again—"that through all the tumult and noise next door Mademoiselle Cynthia slept. That admitted of two possibilities. Either her sleep was feigned—which I did not believe—or her unconsciousness was induced by artificial means.

"With this latter idea in my mind, I examined all the coffee-cups most carefully, remembering that it was Mrs. Cavendish who had brought Mademoiselle Cynthia her coffee the night before. I took a sample from each cup, and had them analysed—with no result. I had counted the cups carefully, in the event of one having been removed. Six persons had taken coffee, and six cups were duly found. I had to confess myself mistaken.

"Then I discovered that I had been guilty of a very grave oversight. Coffee had been brought in for seven persons, not six, for Dr. Bauerstein had been there that evening. This changed the face of the whole affair, for there was now one cup missing.

"The servants noticed nothing, since Annie, the housemaid, who took in the coffee, brought in seven cups, not knowing that Mr. Inglethorp never drank it, whereas Dorcas, who cleared them away the following morning, found six as usual—or strictly speaking she found five, the sixth being the one found broken in Mrs. Inglethorp's room.

"I was confident that the missing cup was that of Mademoiselle Cynthia. I had an additional reason for that belief in the fact that all the cups found contained sugar, which Mademoiselle Cynthia never took in her coffee. My attention was attracted by the story of Annie about some 'salt' on the tray of cocoa which she took every night to Mrs. Inglethorp's room. I accordingly secured a sample of that cocoa, and sent it to be analysed."

"But that had already been done by Dr. Bauerstein," said Lawrence quickly.

"Not exactly. The analyst was asked by him to report whether strychnine was, or was not, present. He did not have it tested, as I did, for a narcotic."

"For a narcotic?"

"Yes. Here is the analyst's report. Mrs. Cavendish administered a safe, but effectual, narcotic to both Mrs. Inglethorp and Mademoiselle Cynthia. And it is possible that she had a mauvais quart d'heure in consequence! Imagine her feelings when her mother-in-law is suddenly taken ill and dies, and immediately after she hears the word 'Poison'!

"She has believed that the sleeping draught she administered was perfectly harmless, but there is no doubt that for one terrible moment she must have feared that Mrs. Inglethorp's death lay at her door.

She is seized with panic, and under its influence she hurries downstairs, and quickly drops the coffee-cup and saucer used by Mademoiselle Cynthia into a large brass vase, where it is discovered later by Monsieur Lawrence. The remains of the cocoa she dare not touch. Too many eyes are upon her. Guess at her relief when strychnine is mentioned, and she discovers that after all the tragedy is not her doing.

"We are now able to account for the symptoms of strychnine poisoning being so long in making their appearance. A narcotic taken with strychnine will delay the action of the poison for some hours."

Love's Awakening

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge a Witness to an Episode in Love Drama

I KNEW that Lillian's offer to act as "innocent bystander" during my interview with Dicky was prompted only by a keen desire to aid me. She has no place in her mental make-up for anything like curiosity, and, in fact prefers not to know anything concern ing the affairs of her friends. But though I dreaded meeting Dicky with no one near me—not so much because I feared his anger as because my own wrath was so near the explosion point—something within me rebelled at having even this nearest friend of all beside me when I faced my husband.

"That's mighty sweet of you, dear," I said hesitantly—"but—"

Lillian put her hands on my shoulders and gave me a kindly but exasperated little shake.

"Since when have you had to throw an apology act to me?" she asked. "Run along and I was going to say, 'take your beating,' but I think I'd better say 'stage your bout,' for I'm betting on you to come out winner. But remember to get your body blows in early. And if you should need assistance, an S O S will bring yours truly on the run."

"I'll remember," I said laughing in spite of my low spirits as I went out of her room and down the corridor to my own. Knowing Dicky, I was sure that he would wait only until Katherine banished him from Junior's bedside to come to me and vent the anger left by our discussion earlier in the day. That his wrath had been quickened, intensified, by his jealousy of Philip Veritsen's lavish gifts to Junior, I was certain, and altogether it was a bad quarter of an hour which I spent in waiting for my irate husband.

I was not gladdened either by a little scene I witnessed from my window which is on the side of the house next the lilac hedge and the tennis courts beyond. There is a wide gap in the lilac hedge, the entrance to the close clipped lawn surrounding the tennis courts, and through it I could see the four players, Mary, Noel, Princess Olga and Prince Georges, in spirited action, and as they are good players, their game was a pleasant thing to see.

That Harry Underwood thought so was evident from his attitude. Seated on one of the garden benches at the side of the courts, he was leaning forward in what appeared to be exuberant approval of the players and the really clever shots they were making.

But Philip Veritsen by his side was exhibiting no enthusiasm. He sat bolt upright, his arms folded tightly across his chest, his chin drawn back into his collar, a posture well known to all his intimates. It is the one he assumes when he is exercising the "high justice, the middle and the low," upon some one of his subordinates, or when he is sitting in judgment upon some play which he has descended from his Olympian heights to hear.

I went to my desk and took my field glasses from their case. Then I went back to the window and trained them upon my employer's unsuspecting face. I saw at once that he was watching Mary Harrison's movements intently, and I shivered at a certain expression of relentlessness in his face. Chance had made Noel and Mary partners, and there was no mistaking the interest which the young violinist took in the girl so gallantly aiding him. He was the weakest of the four because of the injury to his wrist from which he only recently had recovered, but as Mary was the best of the quartet, the game was fairly even.

My employer sat apparently motionless until the game was over and the opponents changed to the other side of the court for the next. Then he arose, walked over to Mary and touched her on the shoulder. He could have said but one or two words to her, for he went back to his seat almost immediately, but I saw the girl involuntarily shrink as if from a blow as he spoke. The next instant, however, she had pulled herself together, and I saw her turn toward Prince Georges with some laughing little speech, apparently a challenge. I was wild to know what Philip Veritsen had said to her, but I had no chance even for conjecture, for Dicky's impatient knock sounded upon my door.

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any druggists.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—Adv.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

I THOUGHT things over quite a while when I had woke up this morning. What I was thinking about was what the lady said about being a boy herself sometime. It was too much for me, so I got up and let Jubilee down and went down and done my milking and turned the cows out and went in and fed my face and swiped some bacon and a egg for Jubilee.

Then I went around to the vacant lot to catch up with the bunch and some of our cows was on the edge of the lot eating grass or lying down, because they knew that the middle of the lot belonged to us. And while we were making up our minds if we would go for some more cherries, or out to the river for corn or play ball or go swimming a fella come across the path through the lot, and he wasn't much older than me, only he had long pants. I thought I would have some fun, and I said, "Mister, please give us a nickel." He looked supprized, but he stopped, and then he felt in his pocket, and said, "A quarter is the smallest change I've got, my son, but take it and buy yourself something with it," and he gave it to me and went strutting off with his head up and trying to look like a man.

We were certainly supprized, and when he got a little ways off we began hollering "Mister" at him till he turned the corner. He almost tripped up over his feet. I said I was ashamed of myself. Feeble said I ought to be. She said to give her the quarter and she would run after him and give it back, so I did and her and Maggie and Younias hiked out. And when we had made it up to go swimming after we got the cows out and had started to drive them along the girls came back, and each one of them had an all-day sucker and some marshmallows, and Feeble looked crosseyed at me. I didn't think it of Younias.

They went to the pasture with us so that we couldn't go swimming, so I caught our horse and we got on him and took turns galloping him around the pasture and chasing the cows. Then Nibs tried riding him standing up, and he had to jump off twice, but then he got the hang of it, and old Frank Horse was going at a gallop and Nibs was leaning against the wind watching the horse when it went under the tree in the middle of the pasture and a limb hooked Nibs under the chin before he saw it. The horse kept going and Nibs came down flat on the ground and kind of went "Whump!" and we carried water from the creek and pored it on him, and he came two and never did know what had happened. Then Feeble said to the Lost Bag of Trips, "I told you not to chunk it at him at him," and Nibs jumped up and chased the Lost Bag of Trips out of sight. I would hate to be a stranger in Pickle.

In their luxurious bathrooms 9 out of 10 screen stars care for their skin this way—

In the dressing rooms of all the great studios, too, Lux Toilet Soap is used

HOW deeply it stirs you—the charm of smooth, soft skin, dewy fresh.

A thrill runs through the audience when the close-up brings the screen star's alluring loveliness so near to them.

Directors insist on exquisite skin, for a star's skin must be satin-smooth to triumph under the glaring lights used in the close-up.

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. In Hollywood there are 433 actresses doing important work, including all stars. 417 of these use Lux Toilet Soap—96%!

All the great film studios have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms.

MARY BRIAN'S fresh young beauty has won the coveted budget..... "Perfect skin is a business, as any one would frankly say in screen circles. Lux Toilet Soap seems best suited to my skin," says this famous star.
